Public's Participation of Major Assistance in Drafting Goals for Regional Schools

"I'm proud of the Princeton community's interest and thoughtful responses – it's like a mandate to school board and staff."

School goals committee member Nancy Kirby was talking at a press conference about the contribution of the community at large to the completed "District Goal Statements" of the Princeton Regional Schools. The goals were compiled, honed, edited and sharpened in 1,000 working hours by 28 citizens, teachers, students, aides and administrators who have been working on the project since December 20.

The completed goals are on page 8.

Next Tuesday, the Committee will present the goals formally to the school board at the 8 p.m. business meeting in Community Park School and the public is invited to attend and comment. Discussion has been scheduled for early in the evening.

Under the usual rules for policies, the board would then accept the goals one month later, at the June meeting, but board member Rosalind Frisch announced at the press conference that she will propose adoption next Tuesday.

"I can't imagine any way to change this goal statement," she declared. "If we tear it to shreds, it's just one more blow to the school system."

"I am very, very impressed with the effort the goals statement represents in language and thought," board president Dietrich Meyerhofer said. "The goals are carefully thought out, and show a great deal of work."

Every school district in New Jersey is now required by law (the "Thorough and Efficient Education" law) to set its own goals, and members of the Princeton committee say Princeton is ahead of many communities in completing the task.

Princeton is unusual – perhaps even unique – in another way, also.

"We have a two-part statement," explained committee member Walton Johnson. "One set outlines goals that require the co-operation of the family. This emerged clearly from responses we received to our 'opinionaire.'"

In that questionnaire, mailed to 9,200 households with more than 1,000 returned, two proposals were questioned more frequently than any others. One suggested that the schools "develop an understanding of each individual's role and responsibility in family life," and the other assigned to schools the task of developing a value structure. A third, relating to discrimination as a consumer, was also challenged.

"These questions about family life and value systems were frequently -- and strenuously! – questioned," Mrs. Kirby said "People would

New School Head Can See 'No Need for Massive Renovation,' But Finds 'Just a Couple of Cracks That Need to Be Fixed'

Dr. Paul Houston
"I'm a Fiscal Conservative"

"In Princeton, I'll be personally concerned with looking towards excellence," commented Paul Houston, Princeton's new Superintendent of Schools, in a relaxed, wide-ranging press conference on Tuesday – his first since his appointment March 24 to the $42,000-a-year job.

"No place is as good as it could be," he continued. "I don't believe in saying, 'Let's hang in there, we're wonderful.' I don't like to say, 'Well, that's all we should expect of this kind of child.'"

In his community interviews, Dr. Houston had said he believed Princeton's system needed some "fine tuning," rather than any radical changes, and he amplified that comment on Tuesday.

"The Princeton system is a very good one in terms of socio-economic backgrounds; the staff is stable with low turnover and high quality -- from what I've seen – and there is community support for education. I see no need for massive renovation, only a couple of cracks that need to be fixed."

He wouldn't say what he thought those cracks might be.

He compared Princeton's possible need for minor repair to the need for massive renovation in Birmingham, Alabama, where he has been assistant superintendent for program and staff development. Birmingham, he said, made drastic changes in its school system so that companies thinking about settling there wouldn't be driven away. As an example of drastic change, he said that Birmingham had no libraries in elementary schools until three years ago.

Priorities Listed. "My own overall strengths are in program and staff development," he said. "As I've talked to people in Princeton, there seem to be priorities in their minds: the need to help long-term staff get even better, to look again at the evaluation system; and second, there is apparently a good deal of latitude in what's studied and how, and a multiplicity of programs. There seems to be a desire for some general education program you could identify as 'Princeton's.' I think T. & E. will lead to this."

Yes, he said promptly, he is impressed by the new Goals Statement (see "Cover," this issue).

"I'll be intimately involved with goals from now on, and I hope to stay on top of it. The statement has tremendous ramifications for my job, and I want to be part of it."

He paused a moment, then said, "I wonder if I'll get stuck with priorities, on down the road?"

"Labels" Shunned. A native of Davis Creek, West Virginia, Dr. Houston speaks his words softly, with a tendency to exclude final "g's." He described himself to reporters as a man who doesn't like to wear labels -- "liberal" or "conservative."

"I'm a fiscal conservative -- school systems must be more business-oriented, and accountable. I was regarded in Birmingham as a liberal on race, but I don't know whether I would be so regarded here in Princeton. I endorse whatever works: I've seen children do well in open classrooms who couldn't learn in traditional classrooms -- and vice versa. I don't like wild swings of the pendulum."

When he was a principal in Summit, N.J. in 1972, Dr. Houston said, he admired Princeton "from afar." He wanted to come to Princeton for personal reasons – he felt it would be a good place for his family -- but also for professional reasons.

"Princeton has a name -- earned, deserved, or otherwise -- as a community where education is valued highly. And there are fewer and fewer places nationally where this is true."

Aware of Problems. He knows about Princeton's financial problems, and the limits imposed by New Jersey's budget 'caps.' It's quite different from Birmingham.

"Doing a better job with less, squeezing a few more pennies -- is very important. I'm not a finance man, but I want to examine this area more closely, for my own education.

For a time, there is sure to be a honeymoon with the school board, but Dr. Houston observed philosophically that, "It's not unusual for a board and superintendent to fall out of love.

"No, I did not have a good relationship with the Birmingham board," he said flatly. "The five-member board was appointed by the city to support the upgrading effort, but it did not, and those members could not be removed. Oh, yes, I got along with some, but I'd been brought in as part of the change."

From the Princeton board, Dr. Houston said, he expects fairness.

"I'm an above-board person who doesn't have ulterior motives. I don't engage in intrigue – it takes too much time – and I hope I'll be taken at face-value."

After he settles into his new office on July 1, he plans to begin immediately to move out into the community.

"It's important for a superintendent to be as accessible as possible," he said, "and I want to establish that early."

He will accomplish this through coffee-hours in the fall, and gatherings with what he called "natural groups," like the PTOs. He hopes these will be small meetings, not assemblages of 200 and 300.

Home, for Dr. Houston and his wife and child, will be a house on State Road. "I guess it's in the Township..."

THINGS GO WRONG

For Auto Thief. Edward A. Vandewater, 24, 12 Craven Lane, Lawrence Township, has been charged with breaking and entering of a motor vehicle and malicious damage to property, after he was arrested last week at Princeton Medical Center. He was later released in 10 percent of $2500 bail.

Vandewater had gone to the hospital for treatment of a severe head laceration.

According to police, two couples from outside Princeton had parked their car late in the evening on Province Line Road near Cradle Rock, at its end. When the four heard their car being started, they shouted and ran toward it.

The car was empty as they approached but the left front window had been smashed out. Vandewater then allegedly came out of the woods and ordered the four into the car. After he had driven off, one of the victims in the rear seat, police said, clubbed Vandewater on the head with a piece of wood, causing him to stop the car, get out and run.

The incident was investigated by Sgt. Anthony Nini, who happened to be on Province Line at the time. He was assisted by Sgt. Norman Servis and Det. Frank Boccanfuso. Police, seeing the amount of blood in the car, notified hospitals in the area to be on the alert for a person seeking treatment for a head wound.

Wine Talk
by Archie Browne

ST. EMILION WINES DATE BACK TO MEDIEVAL TIMES

On the right bank of the Dordogne River, is the medieval town of St. Emilion whose wines, are known for their rich body, beautiful color and full bouquet, which explains why they are often called "the burgundies of Bordeaux". Even though they have more body, the wines of St. Emilion mature somewhat sooner than the great wines of the Medoc The classification of the chateaux of St. Emilion in 1955 designated twelve first great classified growths and sixty-three great classified growths, and in addition, singled out Chateau Ausone and Chateau Cheval Blanc as being particularly spectacular amongst the first great classified growths.

Chateau Ausone is considered the most famous chateau of St. Emilion and its name dates back to Ausonius, the great Roman poet, who was born in Burdegalia (Bordeaux) and was the original owner of the estate.

Besides the outstanding chateau wines, district (regional) wines labeled "St Emilion" have a relatively high average quality They are full-bodied, generous and pleasing to the palate. They are less expensive than the named chateau wines and represent good values. The determining factor insofar as the quality of the regional wines are concerned is directly related to the integrity and ability of the shipper.

Goals for Regional Schools

write on their questionnaire, 'That's none of the schools' business!' or 'This should be a SHARED responsibility!'"

And so the goals committee developed six goals which its members perceive as "the shared responsibility of schools, parents and the community."

Great Interest Shown. Responses of the thousand or so people who replied were firm and thoughtful, Mrs. Kirby continued.

"We'd receive questionnaires -- opinionaires, we called them – with writing all over them! People would even send us additional typed manuscripts. These comments are the most important part of the community's response, and we regard them as a faithful representation of the priorities of the community."

The goals committee, by the way, has not listed its goals in any order of priority.

"It wouldn't represent the sentiments of the community," Mr. Johnson observed, "and maybe it shouldn't be done at all."

However, in a 16-page supplement which adds specific suggestions to each goal statement and represents what the community at large thinks about goals, the committee says that one goal should always be Number One – developing competence in reading, writing, speaking and listening to English.

Under "acquiring a knowledge of the world," one suggestion is -- learn at least one foreign language starting in kindergarten.

"Learn How to Learn." Under "Find enjoyment in learning," the supplement proposes self-education -- "learn how to learn."

Incorporated into the physical education goal, is sexuality, birth control – and artificial heart massage.

Under "develop critical and creative thinking processes," is the suggestion -- "learn to discriminate between legitimate questions and manipulative propaganda."

Incorporated into the career decisions goal is the suggestion that students be instilled with the idea that "work is wealth."

Community suggestions include strong emphasis on a co-ordinated curriculum, use of available resources including the Princeton community, enrichment programs which might include preschool education starting at the age of three.

Provide a meaningful alternative for children who will not succeed in a normal education program, the supplement suggests in one part, and encourage the diversity that is inherent in students.

Aims Are Diverse. Diversity, in fact, was one strong characteristic of the Goals Committee itself.

"I never thought," marvelled member Charles Rosenblum, "that 28 people with such a divergence of age, political opinion, education opinion, background -- could come up with a document!"

"The group worked together with some very good exchanges of opinion," Mrs. Ludlum commented, "there were no hard feelings between any two people, at the end."

Ages of committee members ranged from a 16-year-old student, to a man of 86.

People who answered the opinionaire represented equal diversity.

"We had answers from senior citizens, ethnic minorities -- all kinds of contributors," Mr. Johnson said, "and we had been quite concerned that we might not get that kind of diversity."

No Computers?

No professional pollsters or computers were used in the goals-making process just completed for Princeton's schools.

A sub-committee drafted proposed goals from 15 sets assembled from other school districts, a drafting committee distilled this work, and the "opinionaire" was the result.

Another sub-committee tabulated all the opinionaires that were returned – something over 1,000. The opinionaire deliberately had a long space for comments because the committee wanted as many subjective opinions as possible.

A computer professional told the committee there were 130,000 data points.

Nancy Kirby was chairman of the editing sub-committee; Rita Ludlam chairman of the context sub-committee; Charles Rosenblum and F.L. Cuthbert were "computers" and Walton Johnson was chairman of the committee that drafted the model.

Slightly over one-half of the respondents had children in the schools; 89 were senior citizens, 126 had children in private schools.

"We even had some bachelors!" said committee member Rita Ludlum.

"It was the Princeton community that responded – not just the school community," Mrs. Ludlum added.

Still to Come. What's next?

"The 'Needs Assessment'" was the prompt reply of Norma Gumbiner, district T. & E. co-ordinator. She pointed out that while state law requires the participation of citizens in developing goals, such participation isn't required in preparing the assessment.

"We hope to write the objectives and needs for next year," she said, "hoping for program development in '78-'79. The whole T. & E. is a five-year process."

Incidentally, almost as an aside, Mr. Johnson observed that the goals committee made no attempt to refer to finances or practicality – and deliberately so. That will be considered when specific objectives to meet the goals, come under consideration.

Mr. Johnson expressed the gratitude of the group to Mrs. Gumbiner and her staff, and to Acting Superintendent Edith Francis for support.

Voice from the Past. Even former Superintendent Philip E. McPherson made his contribution. At the start of the Goal Statements are three broad goals which he always liked to cite:

"The self-confidence to feel capable of making a constructive contribution to society; the competence to be able to make such a contribution and the sense of responsibility to want to make such a contribution."

ACTION ADVISED

On Housing Guidelines. "Time is getting short on a housing plan," warned Michael Danielson at a League of Women Voters housing meeting last week. "A developer with a good plan, asking for re-zoning is going to be in a strong position."

The day before, Township Committee discussed a letter from Gibbs and Hill, formally asking Committee to adopt "appropriate changes" to allow construction of 632 housing units (density: 2.7 units per acre) on land in the northern Township.

Gibbs and Hill's attorney, A.C. Reeves Hicks, advised Committee that, by giving reasons, it could adopt zoning that's not in accord with the Master Plan, as "interim" zoning pending completion of the present housing Master Plan.

But Committee was wary.

In the Proper Order. "Yes, you can zone specifically, but only AFTER some recommendation from the Planning Board," said Mayor Josie Hall.

"What would be the consequences in the courts, of our refusal?" asked Committee member Hugo Hoogenboom.

It will be the first thing asked of municipal attorney Gordon Griffin when he returns from vacation.

"It's better to make policy than to regulate process," Dr. Danielson said at the League meeting and in conversations afterwards. "One would like to goose this policy along!"

"There is a real need to move ahead, and not search for absolutely ideal solutions -- although that's understandable," he continued. "We must have something that doesn't take another five years, and will protect the things that are valuable in this community."

Aid Not to Be Expected. Federal and state aid are both unlikely, he said bluntly, and it's hard to cook up schemes without them. Housing for the very poorest is "unrealistic," he said. Producing housing for the middle one-third could be done with higher densities, but even this won't benefit anybody unless the housing can be at a lower cost than the market can provide.

In its letter to Township Committee, Gibbs and Hill said "virtually all" its units would cost less than $80,000. Over half would be between $45,000 and $58,000. Housing costs rose 30 percent in five years, the firm said: from a median price of $58,000 in 1970, to $75,000 today.

"These dreary statistics point to the critical need for prompt, decisive action," the letter states.

Cost Always a Factor. Dr. Danielson, who is professor of public affairs and politics at the Woodrow Wilson School and author of "The Politics of Exclusion," told the League audience that there are opportunities for communities. The question is--how to make use of them?

"What can be done to provide the maximum number of units below the market price, and how creative can we be in keeping those units in that pool?" he asked the audience.

"I suspect this means housing will be expensive even if it's subsidized.

"I suspect also," he said, "this means significantly higher densities than have been considered, even for middle-income families."

"People are purists, and this complicates things in a community like ours. We know people are being priced out of the housing market. This leads me to the conclusion that we should be more receptive to proposals that are going to get at SOME of the people, even if they don't meet our romantic notions of who needs help the most."

"Time is getting short--that was the lesson of Mt. Laurel."

Art Teachers, Facing Cutbacks, Want Community to Be Aware of It

No, there won't be any petitions, demanding reinstatement of art teachers sliced from the Princeton Regional School budget.

"Community awareness is what we want," emphasized Louis Cicchini, as a group of art teachers sat around after school last Thursday in the Community Park art room.

Rows of carefully-modeled clay projects, samples of weaving on the walls, exhortations to do your "BEST!".....the look for an atelier after the artists have gone home until tomorrow.

"We'll still have the same number of kids, but less time because now we have to go to another building -- we don't know yet which one. We'll be doing 100 percent of a job in 80 percent time," Mr. Cicchini said.

Princeton has had eight art teachers. Two have been reduced to 80 percent time. Three have been dropped completely. One will remain at 50 percent time (doing supplemental work the other half of the time). Classes, Mr. Cicchini said, will be 40 minutes instead of 60, difficult in a course where materials must be taken out and put away.

This leaves one full-time person at the elementary school level and one full-time art teacher at the high school.

"We are such a small department that it isn't asking much to have us restored," observed Rosemary Blair, "we certainly aren't overstaffed in art! T. & E. has made people aware of the need for basics, but what do engineers do in their spare time? They sculpt! Or go to art galleries....."

"This could be the beginning of a shave-back each year," said Ted Lynch despairingly. It was his art room, at Community Park.

"And I don't feel that art is a 'frill," Mr. Cicchini said firmly, "It's sad, if people still feel that way. Kids should realize their full potential, and I think maybe there has been too much emphasis on 'enlightenment,' shall we say, and not enough on other aspects of life, the spiritual and the physical, the performing arts. We should move toward a more humane curriculum."

Mrs. Blair nodded her head.

"Intellectual development in a non-verbal way needs more emphasis. We can shnw you children who learn by doing things with their hands. These cutbacks reflect a philosophy of education which the board represents as the thinking of the community."

"When you cut PROGRAM," Mrs. Blair continued, "it's not the same as increasing class size. Our department has been cut by one-third!"

The art teachers said they planned to see the new superintendent to make him aware of their problem. They have already conferred with members of the administration and school board, with principals and, through a letter released to the public last week, with Acting Superintendent Edith Francis.

"Now, we want the community to be aware," Mr. Lynch said.

In addition to those teachers named here, David Mackey and Arthur B. Moore signed the letter to Mrs. Francis. Margaret Laughton, who was absent when the letter was prepared, is also in the group.

THEATER INVADED

By Nude Streakers. For a few moments Friday evening, the film "Rocky" at the Garden Theater had to compete with two dozen nude male streakers, who entered shortly before 11.

Ptl. William Fitch responded to a call by the theater manager who told him that approximately 27 nude men had entered the theater by the front door and exited out a rear door. The streakers had left by the time Ptl. Fitch arrived.

They were reportedly members of the Princeton University rugby team touring the town after the group's annual banquet. After leaving the theater, they returned to the campus and visited the Pub.

"Needless to say, the rugby players think it is a prank. Maybe it is on campus," said Chief Michael Carnevale, "but if the two gentlemen can be identified (a picture of two of the streakers – au naturel – appeared on the front page of Monday's edition of "The Daily Princetonian"), they will be charged with open lewdness."

THE COST OF HEALTH

Three Seminars Planned. Three seminars on the cost of hospital care in Princeton will be held on successive Thursdays from 7:45 to 9:30 p.m. at the Public Library under the joint sponsorship of the Council of Community Services, the Medical Center, the Princeton Regional Health Commission and the Princeton Public Library.

Speakers at the first seminar, to be held Thursday, May 26, will explain how the Medical Center determines in-and-out-patient costs, analyzing costs that contribute to the per diem rate, such as a nursing staff, utilities, maintenance, physicians, X-rays and intensive care.

John W. Kauffman and Dennis Doody, president and executive vice-president of the Medical Center, will speak.

On Thursday, June 2, seminar participants will show how these costs are met, using hypothetical examples of an emergency surgery case and an out-patient clinic case. Private and corporate insurance plans, Medicare, Medicaid and welfare will be analyzed for their contriubtions.

Panelists will be Frederick A. Cook, assistant director of personnel at Princeton University; Kenneth C. Kunz, Prudential Insurance; Jane Ahrens, welfare director for Princeton Borough, Mr. Kauffman and Mr. Doody.

The final seminar will explore the way community resources are mobilized for patient care, inquiring into the costs of home-care plans, and explaining the work of local health agencies.

Speakers will be Edith M. Umbrecht and Frank Schneck of the Medical Center staff; Henry J. Dudnick, M.D.; S. Sutton Hamilton, M.D.; Janet Pearson, executive director of the Council of Community Services, Mr. Kauffman, and Mr. Kunz.

The seminars have been planned as an interrelated series, and the Council urges attendance at all three. Background brochures are available at the library, the West Windsor, East Windsor and Twin Rivers branches of the Mercer County library, the libraries in Rocky Hill and Cranbury, the Princeton Regional Health Commission office and the Council's office at 221 Witherspoon.

JEWELRY IS STOLEN

From Palmer Square Apartment. Between 4 and 9 p.m. Thursday, a woman's solid gold wrist watch valued at $1,000, a $1,000 gold chain bracelet, cameo and pearl rings valued at $100 each, and some Mexican jewelry were stolen from a Palmer Square apartment. Police report no forced entry.

Also taken were two men's sport jackets and golf cuff links. Ptl. Robert Mucciarelli and Ptl. John Reppe investigated.

Around 3 Tuesday morning while the occupant was watching television downstairs, an intruder entered a Witherspoon Street home through a second-floor bathroom window and removed a stereo receiver valued at $160.

An attempted entry Friday night into a Dickinson Street apartment misfired, police said, when another tenant entered the driveway and apparently frightened off the thief.

Police report that a rear door had been pried open shortly after 9 but there was no entry.

2 Pocketbooks Stolen. The pocketbooks of two Pennsylvania women were stolen Sunday afternoon from their locked car in the Marquand Park lot.

One victim lost a brown leather handbag valued at $100 which contained $35; the other, a $10 canvass handbag which contained $10. Although the women report that their car had been locked, police said there was no evidence of forced entry.

A pocketbook left momentarily by an employee in an office building at 22 Chambers Street atop a third-floor radiator was stolen last week. It was later found in an elevator in the building minus the $50 it had contained.

A suspect seen leaving the elevator was described by police as a teenager, about 5-8, carrying a tennis racket. Det. Timothy Huizing is continuing the investigation.

A Belle Mead resident last week listed the theft of the air cleaner from his car while it was parked on Witherspoon Street between 11 p.m. and 1 a.m. It was valued at $40.

STORY DOESN'T CHECK

Speeder Charged. When Ptl. Anthony Gaylord stopped Frank Borromeo, 29, of Trenton one evening last week for speeding 56 in a 40-mile zone on Route 206 near Valley Road, Mr. Borromeo had a ready excuse.

He told Ptl. Gaylord that he had just received a call from the Piscataway police informing him that some juveniles had started his backhoe and police were unable to turn it off. They had requested that he go to the scene.

Ptl. Gaylord radioed the Township desk officer, Ptl. Peter Savalli to check with the Piscataway police. While the check was in progress, Mr. Borromeo suddenly drove off. He was later stopped after a chase by Ptl. Gaylord on River Road in Montgomery Township, placed under arrest and charged with eluding a police officer.

Mr. Borromeo was later released, pending his appearance June 2 in Township court.

Correction

When the Mountain Avenue-State Road jug-handle has been completed, Bayard Lane will be closed off at its junction with Route 206 (State Road). The location was incorrectly given in last week's story.

Hot Weather Cure

Squeeze a fat,
Expensive lime:
It's nearly gin-and-
Tonic time.

If temperature readings around 90 aren't proof that it's time for a tall glass, ice and whatever your choice of liquid refreshment may be, nothing will persuade you that warm weather has finally come to stay. Regretably, however, there is more than enough humidity to go with it.

What made last weekend so thoroughly delightful was the dryness of the atmosphere–humidity was measured in the low 20s. Now, the air is heading this way from the Gulf of Mexico, rather than Canada, and there is a pronounced difference. As a result, thundershowers are a possibility both Wednesday and Thursday. Friday will be a bit cooler, and the weekend is expected to continue with temperatures around a maximum of 80 and the sky generally fair.

NEW YORK MAN HELD

For Credit Card Possession. A New York resident is being held in jail in lieu of $75 bail for a probable cause hearing Wednesday on police charges of five counts of possession of stolen credit cards.

Rubin Elfman, 45, was arraigned Friday before Borough Judge Philip Carchman. He gave as his address, Sloan House, 34th Street, New York City.

Chief Michael Carnevale reported that police aren't sure if that is the suspect's true identity. "He had a number of identifications in his wallet when he was arrested," Chief Carnevale said.

He was picked up on the university campus Thursday by proctors after a woman told university security that she and her husband had discovered the suspect with her wallet in his hand when they entered their office in Green Hall at 4:15. Chief Carnevale said the suspect then returned the wallet to the knapsack from which he had taken it and pretended that he was looking for someone.

Seeing a name plate on a desk, Chief Carnevale continued, the suspect then asked for that person and left a note with a sales representative card attached to it on his desk.

During Elfman's processing, police determined that the wallet in his possession had been stolen in New York City. He had used one of the credit cards to charge three nights' stay at the Nassau Inn, police said.

EMPLOYEE CAR TARGET

Of Vandals. While his car was parked last week in the lot next to the Hun School gym, Steven Mario Kun-Szabo, an employee of the school, told police that both wipers and the side view mirror had been bent.

In addition, the word "MELON" had been scratched on the door on the driver's side in three-inch letters with a sharp object. Total damage was estimated at $50.

COMPARISONS?

On State Tests. Full information--how students did on each item in the most recent battery of state tests—will be available in schools and the public library next week, according to Charles Huchet, director of Student Services.

Recent stories in Trenton newspapers comparing Princeton with other districts do not give a true picture, Dr. Huchet said.

"School districts themselves don't do comparisons because they aren't useful or helpful," he said. "The more the public is interested in that kind of thing, the more classroom teachers put an inappropriate emphasis on test scores."

Comparative figures, prepared by newspaper staff and not by state or local officials, show Princeton ranking 131 in the 570 districts in the state. The percentage of students passing the 65 mark was 93.99 for Princeton -- lower than Hopewell Valley's 95.13, for example.

"Homogenous communities usually do the best," Dr. Huchet observed, "that's a possible reason for the difference between Princeton and Hopewell."

Dr. Huchet also pointed out that none of the top 25 districts has a high school.

DNA RESEARCH

"Compatible" with Safety. Re-combinant DNA research is "compatible" with health and safety in Princeton, the citizens committee report will say. Eight of the 11 members of the group agree with this conclusion.

The report was completed Monday night, after a brain-breaking six-hour session on Saturday and a final two-hour meeting Monday. It will be presented to Borough Council and Township Committee next week.

The conclusion of the majority is that DNA research, done under the restrictions laid down in the report, is "compatible" with health and safety, and Princeton University should be allowed to go ahead with research at the P-3 level.

The minority of three are Emma Epps, Susanna Waterman and Wallace Alston. It is not yet known what form their own report, if any, will take.

Hospital Needs Variances. Parking for the Medical Center and an unprecedented visit by zoning board members and public to a private home, will occupy the Township Zoning Board at its meeting next Wednesday, May 25, at 7:30 p.m. (Township Hall.)

The Medical Center plans a three-story parking garage facing Henry Avenue – where a row of houses has been razed – and needs the variances associated with a residential zone, in this case, R-8. It's the next to the smallest zone in the Township.

The Center needs a height variation, because the garage would be 35 feet and the limit is 30; a variance from the 30 percent floor-area ratio to allow 126 percent; a parking setback of eight feet (rules for R-8 allow none at all), and a rear-yard variance.

In a unique action – at least, nobody in Township Hall can recall anything similar – the Zoning Board will set a date for its members to join the public at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Fred H. Tenney, 168 Hickory Court. The Tenneys were turned down by the board when they asked for variances to build an addition, so they applied again, inviting the board to visit the house and see for themselves the "hardship" involved.

It is expected that a date will be set at the Zoning Board meeting, with final decision in June. Under the "sunshine law," the public must be invited, too.

The board will continue its hearing into the request of Ermilina Ruberto to move a Henry Avenue house to 45 Harris Road.

NINE ARE FINED

For Speeding. Nine Princeton area residents were fined Monday in Borough court by Judge Philip Carchman for speeding.

Six paid $15 fines: Louis Davis, 58 Valley Road; Mark A. Boada, 21 Harris Road; Christopher Pike, 101 Leabrook Lane; William D. Rosessel, 63 Lillie Street, Princeton Junction; Betty Dean, 10 Columbia Avenue, Hopewell ; and Barbara Cooper, Stony Brook Road, Hopewell. Jeffrey Charen, 331 Riverside Drive, paid $20, George A. Baratt, RD 2, Princeton, $19, and Daniel Tamasi, 229 Terhune Road, $16.

Hoge Woolwine, Springhill Road, Skillman, was fined $20 for no name on a commercial vehicle; Joseph A. Waters, 11A Juniper Row, paid $25 for a red light violation and Claudette Rubin, 19 Vandeventer, paid $20 for an illegal U-turn.

"JOIN SIERRA!"

Membership Drive. Sierra Club membership can be fun as well as earnest, members are saying this week from sign-up tables on Palmer Square (10 to 6 through Sunday).

A picnic at the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association this Saturday from 11-3, is part of the fun. The club says you can play games, watch birds, go hiking on Watersheds' trails, learn about nature and roast marshmallows.

On the serious side, the Central New Jersey Chapter of the Sierra Club is closely watching the Pine Barrens, hoping to keep a tight rein on people who try to dump there, and working to keep the Barrens from development. The Club is also involved in studying New Jersey's cancer problem.

Nationally the Sierra Club wants to keep down the porpoise kill in tuna catches, and in a recent call to arms, members were asked to write members of Congress asking them to defeat a measure that would raise porpoise quotas.

Incidentally, the Central New Jersey group divided not long ago, and members who live in shore communities are now separate from the group that comprises Princeton and its environs.

Meetings Held Monthly. Monthly meetings, held in Peyton Hall on Ivy Lane off Washington, alternate between talks on serious subjects and lighter programs, such as slide presentations. It may be the Grand Canyon one month, and coastal zone management the next.

There are also such events as the "orienteering expedition" in early May, when participants learned how to use compass and map to get themselves out of the Institute for Advanced Study woods.

Additional information about the Sierra Club may be obtained in its office at 360 Nassau, behind the Whole Earth Center. The office is staffed between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., and the telephone is 924-3141. John Green, Penns Neck, is head of the local chapter.

Membership is $20, with additional $10 for a spouse. Full-time students pay a membership fee of $10. Senior citizens over 60 are $8 with an additional $5 for a spouse.

Every Sierra Club member who recruits a new member during this drive, gets a dwarf fruit tree – apple, pear or peach.

Calling All Exterior Decorators!

No, Tom Sawyer, it needn't be your own. In fact, you'll have more fun if it isn't.

Show up, sharp and fresh as paint, at 10 a.m. this Saturday and if you're one of the early and lucky ones, you can paint whatever you like (well, within proper bounds!) on the construction fence around the sad, vacant space where the Benson Building used to be at the corner of Witherspoon and Spring streets. (And will be again, apparently.)

Fenced space will be allotted on a first-come, first-served basis, so don't dawdle over your morning tea. If you wish, you can paint your idea of what a new Benson Building ought to look like, but you don't have to be an architect to paint.

Wear old clothes. Paint will be provided. The Arts Council is the provider.

It will herald the Royal Fete the following day. Co-chairmen of the dance are Gail Jones and Jeanne Jones.

The tent on the Fete site on Washington Road Field will be turned into a castle with flags flying from its turrets under the direction of Lucy and Jim Stretch, head of the decorations committee.

Peter Vielbig of Princeton Caterers is preparing the buffet dinner which will begin at 8. The menu: gazpacho, char-grilled sirloin strip steak, potatoes au gratin, green beans with mushrooms, spring salad, bread and cheesecake with fresh strawberries.

The Speakeasy Jazz Babies, direct descendants of Woody Allen's band, will provide dance music and entertainment.

Games of chance and a Silent Auction are to be part of the program. This auction will start at the dance and continue throughout Fete day. Bidding will be for a painting of your home by Susan Swartz. Adding to the excitement will be The Rack, the Royal Fete's Fun House.

Tickets are $25 per couple. Space is limited and reservations must be received before June 1.

Those interested in attending should call or write Mrs. John P. Murray, Cherry Valley Road, 921-6163, or Mrs. Dorcas Johnson, 61 Hodge Road, 924-8664.

PARTY IS SUNDAY

For Peter Bearse. A party featuring well-known belly dancer Cynthéa, plus drinks, hors d'oeuvres, and dancing, will be held on Sunday afternoon, May 22, to raise funds for the campaign of Peter Bearse of Princeton, a candidate for the New Jersey Legislature.

Mr. Bearse, who has received the endorsement of the Mercer County Democratic Committee, is seeking the democratic nomination for state senator, the seat now held by Anne Martindell. Senator Martindell, who has accepted a job in the Carter administration, has endorsed Bearse, as has Mercer County Freeholder Barbara Sigmund.

The party will be held at 7 Greenholm, and will run from 4 to 7 p.m. Cost is $10 per person. Everyone is welcome. For further information or reservations, call Merry Draffan at 921-3049.

SUMMER HELP SOUGHT

By Recording for the Blind. With the approach of summer vacations, Recording for the Blind is seeking volunteers to replace those who will be away.

Anyone with at least two years of college and willing to give at least an hour and a half each week to recording textbooks on tape for visually handicapped students is invited to phone 921-6534 or visit the studio at 100 Stockton Street.

All recording is done in the studio, Monday through Thursday from 9 to 4:30 and 7 to 10, and Friday from 9 to 12. There is a particular need for people knowledgable in chemistry, physics, computer technology, law, biology, mathematics, foreign languages and other specialities.

Readers and monitors work together to make the recordings, and there are many other necessary activities besides the actual readings.

RECEIVES GRANT

To Expand Program. The Association for Advancement of the Mentally Handicapped has received a $25,000 grant from the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation toward the development of a community support system for mentally handicapped adults in Union County.

The planned support system will be based on a model developed by the AAMH in Mercer County to help mentally handicapped adults achieve a high degree of independence through individually tailored efforts to fill such basic needs as jobs, housing, social activities, medical care, money management, and adult education.

Linkage of community social service resources that can contribute to the well-being and self-sufficiency of mentally handicapped adults is another primary objective of the AAMH program. The AAMH was founded in 1974. In addition to the Mercer Chapter, currently serving over 100 mentally handicapped adults, a second chapter recently began operations in Middlesex County.

Goals for Princeton Regional Schools

WHEREAS: In this world of challenge and opportunity, the schools should help all students develop:

- the self-confidence to feel capable of making a constructive contribution to society;
- the competence to be able to make such a contribution; and
- the sense of responsibility to want to make such a contribution.

THEREFORE: The Princeton Regional Schools propose that each student should:

- Develop competence in reading, writing, speaking, and listening to English.
- Acquire a knowledge of the world through the study of the physical and biological sciences.
- Develop a theoretical and functional knowledge of mathematics.
- Accumulate a knowledge of other cultures and civilizations, including the opportunity to learn their language, history, literature, and art.
- Acquire a familiarity with the world of art, music, literature, and drama and have opportunities to participate.
- Learn about the history and structure of our society and prepare for active, responsible participation in the political, social, and economic affairs of the community and nation.
- Find enjoyment in learning and acquire the skills necessary for a lifetime of continuous education, for adaptation to change, and for use of leisure time.
- Develop an understanding of and the skills necessary for physical education and health education to promote bodily and mental health throughout life.
- Acquire information and exposure necessary for career decisions and have the opportunity to acquire vocational skills.
- Develop critical and creative thinking processes and facility in problem solving.

While home and school ideally work together on all aspects of education, the following goals are particularly perceived as the responsibility of school, parents, and community:

- Develop an understanding of each individual's role and responsibility in various life situations, including the family.
- Acquire understanding and appreciation of persons belonging to different social, cultural, and ethnic groups.
- Acquire a variety of practical skills needed for everyday life.
- Develop and understand one's own value structure and appreciate how values affect one's own life and relationship with others.
- Appreciate the value and limits of the world's natural resources and learn how to use them wisely.
- Treat all people considerately, respecting their rights and property.

THEREFORE: the Princeton Regional School District should:

- Provide a coordinated curriculum to ensure that skills in subject areas will be taught in a logical sequence.
- Encourage effective and equitable use of available resources, including the capabilities of the community at large.
- Provide a highly competent staff which maintains high levels of skills and performance.
- Provide enrichment programs and services for the special needs of students.
- Provide students with work which challenges them and with instruction and suggested study habits to help them meet the challenge.
- Conduct its activities to encourage staff, citizens, and students to make recommendations and be involved in the decision-making process concerning the school.
- Encourage students to recognize, appreciate, and strive for excellence.
- Help students to recognize their own self-worth and to recognize and appreciate the worth of others.
- Provide a clean, safe, attractive, disciplined school atmosphere to foster and reinforce positive attitudes and behaviors.

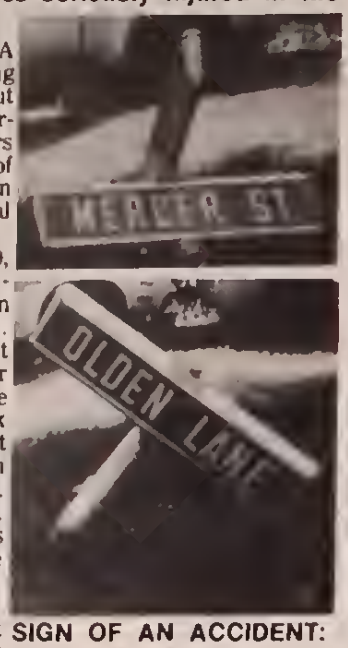
CARS LOSE, OCCUPANTS WIN: Although both of these cars were judged a total loss by police, none of the three occupants was seriously injured in the collision which occurred Thursday at Mercer Road and Lovers Lane.

TWO CARS TOTALLED

In Borough Collision. A mother and her young daughter and a Connecticut resident were injured Thursday morning when their cars collided at the intersection of Mercer Street and Olden Lane. Both cars were a total loss.

Mrs. Maris F. Cutting, 30, 2895 Main Street, Lawrenceville was issued a stop sign summons after she told Ptl. Monica Sheehan that something had distracted her attention for a second and she failed to stop. Her car struck another on Mercer Street heading toward Princeton driven by Alexander M. Watson Jr., 24, of Avon, Conn. The impact pushed both cars over the curb and onto the sidewalk and lawn of 6 Olden.



SIGN OF AN ACCIDENT: The pole identifying the intersection where the two-car cresh occurred was one of the victims.

Mrs. Cutting was treated at Princeton Medical Center for lacerations of the face, elbow and mouth. Her three-year old daughter, Shawn, received cuts in the chin and cheek.

Mr. Watson sustained facial wounds and leg injuries. All were taken to the hospital by the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad.

When police arrived on the scene, there was a fire in the engine area of the Watson car and Engine No. 3 was called to put out the blaze. Debris was scattered about the intersection. In addition, a Borough street sign was leveled as a result of the mishap, which took place one minute before 11.

Pedestrian Struck by Car. A 60-year old Princeton resident was injured seriously last Tuesday evening when he was struck by a car in the middle of Princeton-Kingston Road, moments after he had stepped off a New York bus at Riverside Drive.

John W. Mileham, 342 Prospect Avenue, was admitted in critical condition to the intensive care unit at the Medical Center, suffering from multiple injuries. Both his collar bones were broken. His condition was described later in the week as satisfactory.

Ptl. William Potts reports that he has not been able to talk with the victim yet and his investigation is continuing.

According to police, Mr. Mileham was struck by the left front fender and bumper of a car driven by Michael W. Zador, 17, 7 Brook Drive West, Kingston. The impact forced the victim along the hood of the car, causing his head to strike the windshield.

Zador told police that he saw the pedestrian suddenly cross the roadway in front of him, and applied his brakes but was unable to stop in time. The accident occurred shortly before 9 o'clock.

Cyclist Dragged. Brian T. McGeer, 19, of Vancouver, British Columbia, was dragged about 10 feet Friday when his arm became wedged in an open window on the driver's side of a car driven by Phelan A. Dashiell, 73, of Trenton.

Mr. Dashiell told police he had just started across the intersection at Witherspoon and Valley Road when a bicycle operated by Mr. McGeer struck the left side of lacerations of the arm. There were no charges by Ptl. Robert Nielsen.

CONTRACT READY

For Township Police. Approval of the 1977 contract between the Township and its police force is on the agenda for this Wednesday's 8 p.m. meeting.

Committee will also receive the report of a Joint (with the Borough) committee on future needs for fire protection in the Princeton community, a report submitted simultaneously to the Borough.

In the past, when Princeton University seniors have used amplifiers at their Senior Prom, there has been as much noise from protesting neighbors as from dancing seniors. The request to use music amplifiers will be before Committee again this Wednesday.

The agenda also calls for introduction of an ordinance to regulate parking in the Community Park swimming pool lot.

In a work session, Committee is expected to talk about proposed revisions to the noise ordinance and a possible pesticide control ordinance.

At last Wednesday's meeting, Committee by a 4-0 vote--Elizabeth Hutter absent --accepted the 40-acre tract of land being donated to the Township by Mary Pardee. Access to the land will be from Stuart Road. The chief landmark on the site is the cavern known as "Devil's Cave," a rendezvous for generations of Princeton children in search of adventure.

A stipulation of Mrs. Pardee's gift is that no new roads be built through the land. On the Master Plan map, an extension of Bayard Lane is shown extending through the area. If roads are built, Mrs. Pardee has said, the land will be turned over to the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association.

THREE-PLANTS BACKED

By Sewer Authority. In an almost off-hand manner Thursday night, the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority reversed itself and voted unanimously for a three-plant sewer system.

A detailed letter from Rocco D. Ricci, acting Commissioner of the Department of Environmental Protection, went "a long way toward answering our questions," observed Authority chairman Ezra Bixby. In his letter, Mr. Ricci agreed to relax strict water-quality standards (thereby reducing the cost of the two treatment plants), and to recommend treatment plant sites. Remaining issues, he said, could be worked out while the plan is proceeding.

Mr. Ricci told the Authority he didn't believe the three-plant system--known as Plan D--would require an environmental impact statement.

In its resolution, the Authority voted to "proceed as rapidly as possible to a three-plant system," move ahead with Step I planning on the two upstream plants ("hopefully with state aid," said Mr. Bixby) continue negotiations with Hopewell Township on the service area, authorize its lawyer to rewrite service agreements for introduction this summer.

"I am guardedly optimistic about being able to move quickly," said a state DEP official in the audience.

NEW MEMBER ADDED

To Shade Tree Commission. The Princeton Township Shade Tree Commission has appointed Sue Travers to serve with Ross Wilcox, president, Walter Mironchik, acting secretary, Anne Adriance, Lankford Bolling and Adela Wilmerding.

The Commission plans and oversees the planting, replacement and stump removal of street trees in the Township. This spring a number of Callery Pear trees were planted along Newlin Road and John Street and more are planned for Birch and Leigh Avenues.

A number of trees were also planted in front of individual homes in the Township. Residents may request to have shade trees planted near, or in certain cases, on their properties. Information about location and costs is available from Mr. Wilcox, 921-6193, or from Mr. Mironchik, 921-7077. Residents may also arrange to have trees planted as memorials at commission-approved sites.

Three-year old leaf compost is available for the taking from the Township dump on River Road to be used as mulch or to enrich gardens. Residents are urged to help themselves during the week from 8:30 until 3 when the dump is open.

SUMMER PROGRAM SET

By Unit of Hospital. The Communication Disorders Unit of the Medical Center at Princeton will offer a summer speech and language camp program for youngsters who require development in the areas of speech, language, gross motor and fine motor activities, as well as interaction with peers.

The goals of the program are to assist the individual youngster in his ability to use language skills receptively and express these skills in a structured small group setting of four to six. The day camp program will meet three times a week during July and August. Any parents interested in the program should call the Communication Disorders Unit at 921-7700, extension 227.

The refreshment committee, headed by Mrs. Charles R. Roberts assisted by Mrs. Steven F. DeRochi, is planning a large shrimp bowl, sherry and cheese drops, asparagus canapes, stuffed mushrooms, and other hot and cold hors d'oeuvres. The "piece de resistance" will be a large bowl of fresh strawberries served with a special whipped cream sauce.

Proceeds will benefit the Stuart Development Fund. Mrs. John P. Belli is chairman.

CRAFTY FOX TO OPEN

Tuesday at 4 Spring Street. In order to market their work, most crafters are forced to travel around to various craft shows. Not only is this time consuming, but also it requires a large stock of goods to create a worthwhile display.

Because of these reasons, Sherbourne McGrath (who had neither the time nor the stock to exhibit her cross-stitch pictures) felt that many crafters might like a more traditional retail outlet for their work.

Having settled on this idea, Mrs. McGrath found things moved quite quickly. No sooner had a friend suggested number four Spring Street as the perfect store for her business, than she learned it was unexpectedly available. (Assemblee, the previous occupant, has joined Milady.)

Opening next Tuesday, The Crafty Fox is a consignment shop, but also an excellent spot to find that special gift when you are searching for the unusual.

Dolls are a favorite with crafters and the hand-stitched details are charming. There is Raggedy Ann and Andy, Little Red Riding Hood with small bread dough loaves in her basket, and a charming buff colored rabbit dressed in a long green calico dress and white eyelet apron, $15 to $24.

Particularly appealing is a sweet little doll with eight different outfits including a nightgown, red corduroy robe, and gingham painter's smock, $30 for the complete set.

OPENING TUESDAY: This family of dolls and animals are but a few of the crafts Sherbourne McGrath has chosen for The Crafty Fox, a consignment shop opening next Tuesday.

Stuffed animals include a terrycloth Pooh bear dressed in a red shirt covered with bees saying "buzz, buzz, buzz," Snoopy, and a patchwork dog with his own bone. Then for the semi-crafter, there is a kit for making a small calico dog, $3.

Karen Hoffman is a silk screener who works with fabric and paper. She has contributed brightly colored abstract notes; framed pictures of nursery rhymes for a child's room; a yellow gingham pillow depicting the cow jumping over the moon, and a natural tote bag with a border of red hearts, $4.50 to $12.

Seed Posies. Another crafter, Susan Kugler, creates unusual flower arrangements with a variety of seeds and spices. Prices start at $4.90 for two posies in a brown ceramic pitcher, trimmed with green burlap leaves and natural bows. These can be special ordered too in your choice of colors, in your container.

Mrs. McGrath's cross-stitch pictures are displayed too. We liked a black cat outlined against a blue gingham background and a tiny colorful barn worked on a piece of natural fabric. They are both framed and cost around $5 to $6.

Other crafts that will be here by opening day are velvet roses, either single stems or arrangements; pillows painted with cats, called liquid embroidery; bread dough plaques; and hand-painted tinware and wooden boxes.

This is a consignment shop, and Mrs. McGrath is as interested in the amateur who has never had an opportunity to display his or her work as she is in the professional. Most craft items will be accepted, in fact she is looking for a needlepointer. It is best to call the shop first for an appointment, 924-2859.

Opening May 24, The Crafty Fox at 4 Spring Street will be open Tuesday through Saturday from 10:30 until 4:30.

ALL THAT'S JAZZ...

At 195 Nassau. Fashions and cycles exist in all fields, with music being no exception. Thus jazz, which came into existence during the early 20th century as a form of popular dance music, and eventually represented the mores of the whole period, once again has begun to grow in popularity.

There are several reasons behind this new interest. For instance, contemporary jazz musicians have become more concerned with communicating with the audience, while at the same time the marketing techniques have improved. Album covers are more attractive, and jazz is being played more on the radio.

Another indicator of this growing interest is a new store, Nassau Street Jazz, which was opened earlier this month by two enthusiasts, Diane Ferrara and Larry Jones. Although specializing in jazz recordings by both new and old musicians, other types of music are here, too.

Some artists we found here were Miles Davis, Ralph MacDonald, George Benson, the Weather Report, Chuck Mangione and Grover Washington, Jr., with many albums priced at $4.49.

Traveling Disco. Disco music is another strong interest for Diane and Larry, and these recordings are available in 45's or long-playing albums. Among the choices here were "That's the Way of the World" by Earth, Wind and Fire, $4.49, and Marvin Gaye "At the London Palladium" which includes "Got To Give It To You," $5.99.

For devotees of this music Nassau Street Jazz offers a unique service called traveling disco. Here a disc jockey will come to your house, restaurant or whatever with all the stereo equipment and records necessary for a full evening of music. The cost varies depending upon the length of the party, but you should think in terms of approximately $100.

Although jazz and disco will eventually occupy most of the store, currently there is a good selection of rock and popular albums here. This variety is to help get the store started, and you'll find recordings by artists such as Linda Ronstadt, Neil Diamond, The Beach Boys, Barry Manilow, Barbara Streisand and others. All popular rock recordings that were $4.49 are on sale at $3.99. Other recordings are priced to $7.49.

Diane and Larry are interested in what the community wants and will base their stock on this in the months to come. In the meantime, if you want something they don't have, they can probably get it for you.

Particularly interesting about Nassau Street Jazz is the fact that you can actually listen to the record before you buy it. So, if contemporary jazz is new to you, give it a chance. Listen to it and make your own decision.

Departing from the music world for a moment, we saw here some handsome round Zodiac wall plaques. Larry has worked with children through the Trenton YMCA and this was his idea of a project to help them earn money. They are painted plastic, but have a wood-grain appearance and start at $5.95.

Located at 195 Nassau Street, Nassau Street Jazz is open Monday through Saturday from 10 until 6.

Instrumental Music Survives.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Princeton's elementary schools will own approximately 12 additional woodwind and string instruments when the instrumental music program resumes in September. The very survival of the program is a tribute to those teachers and parents who helped the Board of Education appreciate its importance.

The PTO's of Community Park, Johnson Park, Littlebrook and Riverside Schools would like to express their gratitude to Andrew Teague of Teague's Ice Company and Peter Vielbig of Princeton Food Management Associates for their generosity in contriubting vital supplies; to Jack Petrone of Center Sports and Jay Mironov of Jay's Cycles for the use of equipment; and to the parents who gave so much of themselves to make our sale at the Great Kite-Flying Day so successful. We are especially proud of the wholehearted cooperation of the four autonomous groups which was shown in this joint effort.

Play It Safe.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Stonewalling. It's a word that was used frequently during a panel discussion last Wednesday night at Borough Hall.

As one of the panelists invited by the League of Women Voters stated, the basic question is how can Princeton provide housing at less than market value? In time, the municipalities of Princeton will be obliged to take the question seriously because of Mt. Laurel and other court decisions in New Jersey.

Yet who is willing to take the initiative? The Borough Council? The Township Committee? Private developers?

Of course, Princeton University could provide the impetus. It did commission a report by Landauer Associates which, in 1970, concluded that there was a need for 4,500 additional housing units.

Or the impetus could come from either the Democrats or the Republicans. But this is election year. Safer to stonewall.

Pure Music in our Midst.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

An Open Letter to the Princeton Community:

Following are just one person's comments, but hopefully expressing the feelings of Princeton residents: we are proud, happy and eminently fortunate to have the Westminster Choir College in our community.

The Westminster touring Choir (the "varsity") is perhaps better known in concert halls of New York and Europe than locally. It is waited for, and eagerly sought, wherever great and pure music is valued.

The purest form of music has to be that of the human voice, preferably unaided by instrumental accompaniment, and surely not altered by mechanical or electronic amplification (which lead to transmogrification). Therefore, the Westminster Choir of 40 voices under the charismatic Dr. Flummerfelt -- and also his tremendous 200-voice Westminster Symphonic Choir singing with our nation's leading symphony orchestras, represent and present the finest in music, be the vehicle medieval or modern compositions, sacred or secular texts.

But hold – there are three other singing groups at the college, really three other major groups, differing in scope and function, yet each making distinct contributions to the college, to us, and to music.

The smallest, 25 voices, is the Westminster Chamber Singers, led by empathic Deonis Schrock, as is the Westminster Oratorio Choir, comprised of Sophomores. The 110-voice, all-Freshman, Westminster Chapel Choir is so ably directed by Robert Simpson. These latter groups sing – like the "varsity" – so well that one has to consciously remind one's self that these are sophomores and 110 freshmen, new to the college, to each other, and new to the genre -- thus performing remarkably well.

With their pure music – the natural beauty of human voices in their full range, bass-tenor-alto-soprano, individually disciplined and collectively blended, soaring musically and spiritually – with these accomplishments the Westminster College choirs have scaled the heights of culture – and all this in "our town".

Common Cause Eyes Gubernatorial Races, Reports on Candidates' Varying Viewpoints

(This is the second of a series of four articles on the 1977 gubernatorial election written for TOWN TOPICS by Robert Willis of New Jersey Common Cause.)

Two races a month apart -- the Kentucky Derby and the Jersey Gubernatorial Sweepstakes.

Down South, Seattle Slew, in just over two minutes, outran a field of 14 to show himself a royal descendant of Bold Ruler. The Preakness, then the Belmont Stakes, may mean immortality. Someday the champion's name may draw the same respectful nods that greet the mention of Man O'War, Citation and Secretariat. For now all he has to do is run...and run.

Here in New Jersey, we have 15 challengers entered in a contest more ancient than even the venerable Derby. Four Republicans, 11 Democrats boldly proclaim their ability to rule. Each would hope, as a descendant of Lincoln or Jefferson, to have his portrait someday joining those of such distinguished governors as William Livingston and Woodrow Wilson. Running, even winning, however, won't bring such distinction. Indeed, only standing will.

Like on the issue of governmental bureaucracy. It's fashionable to decry it; might fashion also dictate doing something about it?

A bureaucracy is as effective as its appointed directors. Growing out of the Senate's constitutional responsibility to "advise and consent" relative to senior executive branch appointees, the custom of Senatorial Courtesy has in practice been a veto power for individual senators.

Should the governor seek to appoint someone from a senator's district whom the senator dislikes, consideration of the nomination is blocked in the Senate Judiciary Committee. In effect, the Senate simply refuses to act on the nomination because of one senator's displeasure. These appointments thus become political footballs to be passed around, not because of outstanding capability, but rather because of political favor. Not the most effective way to run a business, at least for New Jersey's citizens!

common cause NEW JERSEY

In response to a Common Cause questionnaire three Republicans (William Angus, Thomas Kean and C. Robert Sarcone) and three Democrats (Brendan Byrne, James Florio and Paul Jordan) would unconditionally support the elimination of Senatorial Courtesy.

Two Democrats (A. Howard Freund and George Koukos) would keep the practice; one Republican (Raymond Bateman), seeking to check Executive abuse of the constitutional requirement of "advise and consent," would circumvent the problem simply by making his "advise" more meaningful. Democrat Raymond Garramone offered no response to this question.

A major source of governmental waste and bureaucratic inefficiency is the non-reflective habit of rubber-stamping new appropriations each year without questioning the accomplishments of a program or agency. Common Cause supports a Sunset law which would put most government agencies and programs on a regular re-authorization schedule.

The legislature would be required to do a thorough evaluation of a program's effectiveness and to pass legislation re-creating it if that were justified. Otherwise the agency or program would terminate.

All Republican respondents would actively support the sign, if passed, proposed Sunset legislation which would terminate licensing boards and commissions unless they were specifically reconstituted by the Legislature. Angus would like to see this extended to all regulatory agencies, Bateman to all stage agencies, while Sarcone and Kean generally support the concept of further extension.

On this issue, Democratic respondents split. Florio, Garramone, Jordan and Koukos would actively support and sign such legislation. Florio would phase it in on a program basis to avoid overstressing legislative review; Garramone would add the area of programs; Jordan would involve other agencies only after his own review of their efficiency and effectiveness.

Byrne, however, would not support Sunset legislation. Rather he currently is pressing for more public members on regulatory boards; by executive order he has instituted a re-evaluation of boards under his control; finally he has recommended elimination of some ineffective agencies to the Legislature. Freund, noncommittal, would have to see the bill.

So we prepare for the Jersey Gubernatorial Sweepstakes. On June 7, we may put our money on the man who runs best or the man with the best stances. Horses gain fame by running; men become distinguished by wise standing. Do we want a horserace -- or an election?

ONE OF PRINCETON'S most gracious houses...Steadman-designed and moved from its original location to this lovely two acre lot with trees and formal gardens, not to mention more than 2 dozen exquisite holly trees, near Carnegie Lake, just over the Princeton line. A modern wing was incorporated in the 50's that blends in beautifully with the original! Mouldings, panelling, mantels, floors, all seem the same vintage. The original two parlours form to make a warm family room with high ceilings and fireplace, the new wing provides a formal living room with elegant marble fireplace, fixtures and windows. A master bedroom suite with full bath and doors to the patio is nearby. Of course, a formal dining room, and super family kitchen completes the first floor. Bedrooms upstairs are in separate wings with two and a full bath in one part, and three with two baths in another. All new wiring, heating, of course, and a barn-garage completes this almost perfect picture for the family who wants to live in Princeton for the convenience and an older house for its charm and character and your own potting shed, too! Nassau Hall Built in 1957!

Can you imagine a 10 year-old Monticello or Mount Vernon? A 20 year-old Nassau Hall? Could you appreciate a 30 year-old Christopher Wren cathedral? This charm and mystique can only be achieved through the passage of time and the caress of loving hands. If you appreciate the classic charm of a time gone by, call to see these restored Colonials. Even though they are not by Jefferson or Wren, they offer the warmth and comfort of home that has been venerated by time.

Originally built in 1832 - mostly random width pine; two working fireplaces and two closed fireplaces; a living and family room that is 17 x 31 feet. Professionally landscaped; and a side porch that reminds you of yesteryear. $75,000

This former carriage house was moved to take advantage of the mature trees and natural setting. The native stone fireplace is the focal center for entertaining and relaxing; the complete kitchen pleases the gourmet, and privacy is assured for all.

These Colonials are not only beautiful for their own charm, but for the surroundings – the village and the area. Dating from 1740 they offer a choice of living with accessibility to everywhere. May possibly be purchased separately, or as one unit.
Up to $150,000

If your choice is for the newly built, the more modern, or the hard to please, call to see our many available listings. For buyers WE HAVE A SUPER-MARKET.

House of the Week

A FRANK LLOYD WRIGHT DESIGN IN THE PROVINCE LINE ROAD AREA OF HOPEWELL TOWNSHIP. A just right "contemporary" that has seasoned a bit. Built about twenty years before its time, incorporating natural woods, flagstone and lots of glass for a house that's fun to live in and easy to maintain. You work in a center kitchen with every convenience, that looks out on the more than ample dining room, just off the deck, not far from the delightful living room with a wall of glass and a colonial fireplace not to be found in such a modern house...usually! Three bedrooms, two full baths and a library/foyer complete the first floor. The lower level almost duplicates the upper, with a bedroom, study, full bath, large family room with walk-out access to the beautiful grounds, a full fireplace, workshop and utility room. Air conditioned, mais oui! All on 3+ acres of tall trees, natural plantings and a view of the Hopewell Valley! It's spectacular...at best. $157,500

...home of the professionals!

Sheep-Raising on 100-Acre Farm Near Kingston Makes Full-Time Job with Spinning and Dyeing

FEEDING HER SHEEP: Linda B. Walker gives grain to six of the sheep she is raising on a farm in Kingston for the quality of their wool. Each one has a name and a distinct personality, and of the playful ram, Papa John, she says, "I now know where the word 'rambunctuous' came from." The geese are looking for their share, too.

Linda Berry Walker is a professional artisan, one who pursues her craft of spinning and dyeing as a fult-time occupation.

In addition to selling her handspun and natural dyed yarns, she also raises sheep for wool, gives tectures and demonstrations, sells spinning supplies and wheels and devotes time to experimental research on a host of natural fibers other than wool.

All this activity is centered on a 100-acre farm off Laurel Avenue in Kingston, which she and her husband, Fred, rent from his employers, Princeton Nurseries, and have re-named Woodsedge Farm. Along with 11 sheep, mostly black, grazing behind wire fencing, there is a cow named Elsie, her heifer, Heidi, and numerous geese wandering free. A large vegetable garden, barns and outbuildings, farm machinery and stacks of tree trunks for firewood to heat the house all combine to give an impression of self-sufficiency.

The farmhouse itself is a workshop and teaching facility as well as home and headquarters for corresponding with and giving hospitality to craftspeople from all over the country. From the nearby woods and fields come many of the plants which Mrs. Walker boils up in big pots on outside fires to make her vegetal dyes.

The sheep, five ewes, a ram named Papa John and five lambs, are of mixed breeds and range in color from coal black to cocoa to silvery grey and white. Mrs. Walker is less concerned with maintaining one breed than she is with producing quality wool. "Black sheep are a rarity," she says," and most sheep are raised for their meat, with wool being a by-product."

Iowa Born. Mrs. Walker can't remeber if it was the toy spinning wheel she was given as a child growing up in Iowa that sparked her interest, but she became serious about it while taking a weaving course during her first year at Iowa State. By the time she met her future husband, who was studing landscape architecture, she knew what she wanted to do and that it would be a full-time occupation.

In the five years since coming East with her husband who was raised on a farm in Belle Mead, she has pursued her craft largely on her own. Although she attended the Arrowmont School in Tennessee, she has mostly sought out experts in spinning and dyeing with whom she wanted to study, writing to ask when and where their next class would be held and going off to attend it.

Now she is an authority in her own right. Along with fleece from her own sheep, she imports and sells fleece from all around the world in every type and color. Mrs. Walker is also knowledgeable in "exotic" fibers and has an impressive inventory of alpaca, mohair, camel, flax, cotton, jute and a variety of silks.

Her workshop bulges with vegetal dyed yarns of every texture and for every purpose, including beautiful Persian

News Of The THEATRES

SUMMER IS BACK!

Diverse! Entertaining! Rewarding! Summer Intime promises all that and more for the summer that lies ahead. Theatre, films, children's shows and pre-season, pre-opener – "Cox and Box."

The musical farce by F.C. Burnand, with music by Sir Arthur Sullivan, will be presented for two weekends – opening Thursday, May 26, and continuing that Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Memorial Day Monday, then skipping Tuesday and picking up again Wednesday, June 1, and running June 2, 3 and 4 – all at 8:30 p.m.

Special children's matinees Sunday, May 29, and Monday, May 30, will begin at 2:30 and children under 14 will be admitted for $1.

Adult ticket prices are $3, and students' are $2. For tickets, the number to call is 452-8181.

"Cox and Box" is the one about two working-class Englishmen who share the same London apartment – without either knowing it. The landlord happily collects double rent, Cox smells mysterious cigar-smoke, Box can't understand unfamiliar socks.

Stephen Sechrist will be Cox, George Oliva is Box and Dale Coye is the landlord.

For its regular summer season, Summer Intime has lined up the following productions:

"Candida" Bernard Shaw's anti-romantic comedy classic, will open June 30, and Kathy Mendeloff -- she did Intime's "Lysistrata" and "Caucasian Chalk Circle" -- will return to Intime from Yale to direct.

"Creation of the World and Other Business," by Arthur Miller, a comic play about Adam, Eve and a snake named Lucifer.

"110 in the Shade," Intime's first summer musical is based on "The Rainmaker" and was written by the composers of "The Fantasticks" and "I Do, I Do."

"Moonchildren," Michael Weller's play about children growing up in the 1960s, will conclude the season. Mitchell Ivers, well-known to Intime audiences, will stage "Moonchildren."

For young audiences, Intime will present "Alice Through the Looking Glass," and there will be a film festival with films to be announced.

FRENCH FILM HERE

Ending the Season. "Une Partie de Plaisir," based on the real-life separation of screenwriter Paul Gegauff and his wife, Danielle, will be shown twice at McCarter this Wednesday, concluding the regular Movies-at-McCarter season.

LOOKING TOWARD SUMMER: Stephen Sechrist will be Cox, in Summer Intime's pre-season production of the comedy, "Cox and Box."

The film will be shown at 8 and 10 p.m., and tickets may be purchased at the door during the afternoon.

A collaboration between Gegauff and director Claude Chabrol, usually known as a director of suspense and mystery films, the film has been described as "a bitter and laconic essay on the battles that are fought in life's living-rooms and bedrooms."

The couple in the story seem ideally happy. Trouble begins when the husband decides they are secure enough in their love for one another to have outside affairs-- "preventive medicine," in his words. The film then shows what happens when the delicate balances in a love relationship are disturbed.

DOUBLE LAFFS!

Plus Documentary. A triple bill consisting of a pair of comedies sandwiched with a serious documentary, will end McCarter's film programs for the season.

This Friday and Saturday at 7:30, McCarter will show Carl Reiner's "Where's Poppa?", followed at 9 by a 42-minute documentary, "Single Parent", and concluding at 9:45 with "Alice Doesn't Live Here Any More."

In "Where's Poppa?" George Segal is a lawyer whose chief problem (aside from his girl friend, played by Trish Van Devere) is his mother (Ruth Gordon). Senile, but healthy as a young horse otherwise, Mother is an albatross around sonny's neck, especially when young girls are about.

There's a Central Park melee in which a man in a gorilla suit embraces a New York policeman in drag--that kind of business.

"Single Parent" shows a divorced woman trying to work, raise three children, keep house and start dating

MONTGOMERY

Welcome to L.A. Structurally inspired by "Nashville," this latest film by Robert Altman, who also produced Nashville, concerns itself with a group of Los Angeles denizens whose lives and loves intertwine in desultory fashion.

It is not another Nashville. "Welcome to L.A." amounts to little more than repeated variations on a single theme: the emptiness and emotional stagnation of the good life of Los Angeles – certainly a less-than-revolutionary theme. There is a great deal of pretension here.

What gives it intermittent highs are the performers, including several Altman regulars. Prime focus is on Keith Carradine, a songwriter lured back home to L.A. after a three-year absence from his millionaire father.

Sally Kellerman gives one of her best performances as a neurotic real estate agent, unsatisfyingly married, and desperately seeking a passionate affair no matter how short-lived. Sissy Spacek is a starry-eyed housekeeper who vacuums in the nude and is a part-time hooker, while Viveca Lindfors is effective as an aging talent agent who masterminds Carradine's return home.

Best of all is Geraldine Chaplin as an incurable romantic who makes up for her husband's indifference by pretending to be Camille. Sadly, these characters are only occasionally revealing of anything as valid as human truths.

PRINCE

Black Sunday. Another disaster film--but wait! This one is a cut above the others.

How's this for a plot? To focus attention on their political plight, Palestinian terrorists plan to obliterate 80,000 spectators at a Super Bowl football game by firing half a million steel darts into the crowd from the Goodyear blimp.

Although its final moments resort to superhuman derring-do and special effects work that tend to strain one's credence, there is no denying the steadily-mounting suspense.

The cast is excellent, particularly Bruce Dern as a psychotically disgruntled Vietnam veteran, an ex-officer who was brainwashed as a POW and comes home a hero without much life left to him. Robert Shaw, an Israeli agent who has lost most of his family to political terrorists, is as cold-blooded and cruel as his adversaries. It is he who, during a commando raid on Palestinian headquarters, uncovers evidnece hinting that some kind of mass violence is planned for somewhere in the United States within two months.

Marthe Keller, a Palestinian terrorist, is alternately glacial and heatedly fanatic as Shaw's lover and manipulator.

Sheep Raising

needlepoint yarns. She sells Mali cotton spindles, Navajo hip spindles and spinning wheels handcrafted by a New Zealand master craftsman who made her take one apart and put it back together again before he would let her be an outlet for his wheel. She teaches courses at the Adult School and at Rocky Hill Community Center and has two apprentices working with her from May through October.

Beginnings of a Flock. Mr. Walker has been a supportive partner in the whole operation. He made the wooden display racks or trees for her yarns, erected the miles of fencing for the sheep and repairs the truck which they used to bring their first sheep back from Kansas, Vermont and Maryland last summer. "When I look at my sheep, I see skeins of yarn walking around," says Mrs. Walker, thinking of how much wool she had to spin and sell before she raised the money to buy the sheep and the fencing.

Taking care of sheep involves feeding them grain, providing water and shelter, rotating pastures twice a year, worming when necessary, lambing and shearing the adults in the spring. The Walkers, who like doing things for themselves, have done all but the shearing, but they have bought the shears and are learning from a friend. The six adults produced 60 pounds of fleece this spring; Mrs. Walker estimates that including wool for her students, some 500 pounds of fleece went through the house in a single year.

Their aim is to build up a breeding flock of black sheep and to take it with them when they buy their own farm, which won't be in New Jersey -- "the taxes are too high." Mrs. Walker wants to be near the Kansas City or Denver markets, because she figures she will be supporting them with her spinning and dyeing, at least in the beginning.

Meanwhile there are demonstrations to be given, such as the one at Clarke House on Saturday, intensive summer workshops in "spinning for design" and in vegetal dyeing to get ready for as well as two new sheep to be fetched from Canada. In January, Mrs. Walker will be going to Bogota, Colombia, to set up a textile department and dye garden at a university which specializes in teaching women of the lower classes. The woman with whom she is co-authoring a book on silk, a former student here, has invited her, and she is very excited by the prospect.

Trading with Others. This kind of sharing expertise and trading both techniques and products around the world and with neighboring friends and fellow craftsmen are very much a part of the profession, and one which Mrs. Walker enjoys particularly. A friend who is a potter is making a set of bowls and plates in exchange for yarn, and a weaver friend made two handsome ponchos using Mrs. Walker's wool and gave her one. The Walkers are self-sufficient in dairy products, vegetables and meat and find it more fun to trade milk for another woman's homemade bread or their tomatoes for someone else's peppers.

It all makes for long hours and no vacations but the rewards, they feel, are immeasurable.

Craft Day Saturday

Mrs. Walker will participate in a Colonial Craft Day Saturday from 1-6 at the Thomas Clarke House in Princeton Battlefield Park. Various skills and crafts practiced by the early American settler will be demonstrated.

These include wool and flax spinning, carding and weaving. Mrs. Walker will show how plants such as madder, tansy and marigold, and tree bark and roots such as redwood and osage were used to give warm, soft colors to wool. Rug braiding, chair rushing and candlemaking will also be on display, as well as dried flower arranging and embroidery.

Mrs. Dede Bowman, historical interpreter at Clarke House, suggests bringing a blanket and a picnic lunch to Battlefield Park before the opening of the exhibit at 1. All are welcome to the Craft Fair, and the usual 50 cent admission has been waived for the day. Collections of woven coverlets, quilts and samplers will also be on display.

For further information, call Mrs. Bowman at 921-0074.

SIGMUND SAYS "YES"

To Bearse Candidacy. Princeton resident Peter J. Bearse has received the endorsement of Freeholder Barbara B. Sigmund for the Democratic nomination for New Jersey State Senate in the 14th district -- which includes Princeton.

Mr. Bearse has also been endorsed by Senator Anne C. Martindell and the Mercer County Democratic Committee.

In her statement, Freeholder Sigmund said:

"Peter Bearse is new to elective politics, but his background makes him an excellent candidate for the Senate. He is a recognized expert on New Jersey problems, and is now serving as associate director of the Center for New Jersey Affairs at Princeton University.

"During his four years as staff director of the New Jersey Economic Policy Council, he researched and made recommendations on nearly every important issue facing the governor and legislature. We have talked about a number of issues facing citizens of the 14th district, and he has always been knowledgeable about the problems and thoughtful and direct in offering possible solutions."

BULBS AVAILABLE

From Sweet Brier Club. The Princeton Sweet Briar Club is having its annual sale of Dutch spring flowering bulbs for the benefit of the Alumnae Scholarship Fund.

Bulbs may be ordered now for fall delivery from the president, Mrs. Robert Van Vranken, 737-3444, and the bulb sale chairmen, Mrs. Bonsall Strong, 921-8076, and Mrs. James Wittke, 921-9021, and any Sweet Briar alumna.

MORE TO IT THAN SPINNING A THREAD: Linda Walker loves color and texture, and the yarns she spins and dyes reflect that passion. Her wools will be on display at a group show at Gallery 100 from Saturday through June 2, and she will give a demonstration of wool dyeing Saturday between 1 and 6. (Fred Walker photo)

EXHIBITION PLANNED

At Gattery 100. "Exploration in Surface, Form and Space" will be the theme of an exhibition at Gallery 100 beginning Saturday and ending June 2. The exhibition will feature recent prints by Princeton artist, Trudy Glucksberg together with works by the artisans of "Transformations," a cooperative of 13 designer-craftsmen from the Princeton area.

Ms. Glucksberg uses unorthodox materials to create interpretive design. Objects such as packaging materials, scrap fabrics, paper and many other unlikely surfaces are employed to create multi-colored collographs and relief prints. She has exhibited in galleries throughout the east, and her work is included in the permanent collections of the New Jersey State Museum and Princeton University Graphics Collections, among others.

The "Transformations" collection includes casseroles and teapots, tapestries, fountains, jewelry from found materials, fiber sculpture, garden pots, pillows, wood sculpture, clay paintings, hand forged silver jewelry, custom spun wool and mohair yarns colored with natural dyes, plates, platters and bowls. The exhibition will be complimented by plants provided by designer Till Miller, The Plant Lady.

This exhibition will be "Transformations'" second showing in Princeton, following a special Christmas show and sale at the Princeton University Store. Members of "Transformations" are Yvonne Aronson, Betty Ruth Curtiss, Lynn Fraker, Marilyn Garnick, Lucy Scanlon, Alexandra Wahl and Martha Wright, all of Princeton; Connie Bracci-McIndoe and Ilse Johnson of Hopewell; Betty Park of Pennington, Linda Berry Walker of Kingston, Cheryl Vernon of New Hope, Pa., and Gary Kreger of New Brunswick.

MONOTYPES SHOWN

At Firestone. An exhibition of 16 monotypes by the American painter Milton Avery (1893-1965) is now on display at the Graphic Arts Collection in Princeton University's Firestone Library.

The first retrospective show to be devoted to the artist's monotypes, the exhibit documents Avery's achievement in this uncommon, yet basic, medium. According to Graphic Arts Curator O. Joseph Rothrock, the medium is unusual in its creation of the unique print, which is produced by painting on glass or metal and printing the image on paper by hand or roller press.

Avery's monotypes are simple, expressive, humorous, and often childlike, according to Bonnie Lee Grad, collection assistant, who organized the show and wrote the catalogue essay. They represent, she adds, "a significant corpus of works in the history of the monotype and also a seminal phase in Avery's long and prolific career."

The exhibit, located in the Graphic Arts Collection on the

Mr. Kain, whose work has been shown at Gallery 100, is a watercolorist whose paintings for this exhibit will include landscapes, seascapes, architectural subjects, still life and scenes in Japan.

The show, which will remain at Western Electric until June 3, is open to the public Monday through Friday from 9 to 4 and on Sundays from 2 to 5.

Rohert E. Moore, A.W.S., of Maine, is exhibiting recent watercolors at the Loft Gallery Center for the Arts, 306 Alexander Street. Mr. Moore has concentrated in the past on the sea and coastal areas of Maine and received the "Best Seascape" Award at the Miniature Art Society's National Show in New Jersey.

Recently, he has taken his semi-abstract style into the meadowlands and forest where the rhythm of his landscapes are enhanced by birds and ruled by the mood of the sky. A member of the American, California and Boston Watercolor Societies, he has shown throughout the United States, and his paintings are in many public and private collections.

The Loft Gallery is open Tuesday through Saturday from 9-5.

FROM ABOVE: Six crews sprinting for the finish line on Lake Carnegie Sunday during the Eastern Rowing Championships, which were dominated by Harvard in front of more than 6,000 spectators. This shot by Walter Marz Aerial Photo Service was taken from about 500 feet.

SPORTS In Princeton

HARVARD CREWS WIN

In Eastern Sprints. Pennsylvania had been seeded first, because it had defeated Harvard a week earlier, but it was hardly surprising when Crimson-tipped oars flashed across the finish line first Sunday afternoon in the finals of the Eastern Sprint Championships on Lake Carnegie.

The margin for the crew from Cambridge over runner-up Pennsylvania was almost a full length, the time a fine 6:03.7 for 2,000 meters. Conditions were virtually perfect, but the hundreds of spectators who came to the left bank of Carnegie will have to wait a while before the event is staged here again. It will return in 1978 to Lake Quinsigammond at Worcester, Mass.

Penn stayed with its conquerors through the first half of the race, but Harvard began to move shortly thereafter. It had a full length with 500 meters to go, and only a "big 10" strokes at the finish narrowed the gap slightly.

Cornell, previously unbeaten, placed third, followed by Syracuse, Yale and Wisconsin. Princeton, plagued by illness and back sprains for the past three weeks after having beaten Penn in the Child's cup when the Quakers shipped a great deal of water, not only failed to qualify for the championship race but was last in the six-boat consolation.

Princeton's 150-lb. entries did well enough so that they tied for second in overall performance with Yale, each college earning 27 points to the 37 that retained the Jope Cup for Harvard for the 10th straight year. Orange and Black jayvees were third in the race for lightweight crews; the varsity and the freshmen were both fourth. Harvard took the varsity race in 6:19.5, a length in front of Navy.

Princeton's heavyweight freshmen made the best showing of the day when they chased Penn across the line, trailing by half a length. The Jayvee boat was fifth in the consolation race.

Penn had a superior overall showing to Harvard in the heavyweight races, thereby winning the Rowe Cup that Harvard had taken each year since 1972. The Crimson was second with 34 to the Quakers' 39 points. Yale was third and Princeton no better than ninth, tied with Northeastern, at 15 apiece.

SPRING SEASON ENDS

As Tennis Team Wins. Another championship tennis team and elimination for the lacrosse team from a berth in the NCAA Tournament marked the end of the 1977 season for spring competition. One or two events remain (the crew will take part in the national rowing championships at Syracuse next month and the Tigers will be represented in NCAA tennis next week at Athens, Georgia), but activity has for the most part been completed.

In Jadwin Gym Tuesday, where the wind and the occasional rain that felt more like late fall could not penetrate, Coach Dave Benjamin's tennis team won the Eastern Association title by demolishing Harvard, 8 to 1. A year ago at Cambridge, the Crimson had upset the favored Tigers, 5-4, gaining an unexpected tie in the final standings, so the clear-cut triumph for the Orange and Black here was all the more enjoyable.

Recording a perfect 8-0 mark in the final standings, Princeton was able to look downwards on nine other teams, all of which have lost at least twice. Overall, the Tigers won 13 of 15 as they finished first in the Eastern Association for the fourth year in a row.

John Hayes, Princeton's no. 1 player, took his match with the loss of only five games. In his four years on the varisty, he won 40 matches and lost but seven.

Lacrosse Loss to Army. Ability to repeat last year's victory over Army might well have earned Princeton a place in the eight-team NCAA Tournament but the Tigers were beaten, 9 to 7, at West Point. Their problem was named Scott Finley: of the victors' winning total, he scored five and assisted on another.

Midway through the third period, Princeton drew even at 6 but Finley added the last three of his output in the remaining time and when the Orange and Black could not score in the final quarter, it saw its final record drop to an even .500 at 6-6. Victories over Brown, Dartmouth, Harvard and Yale were good for a 4-2 mark and third place in the Ivy League, which Cornell topped, with Penn second.

Captain Wick Sollers scored three times against Army, Dave Tickner adding a pair. Loss of these two and an outstanding goalie in Kevin Gray will be a key problem in the Tigers' plans for topping the .500 mark next spring but there is good holdover material and the sport is on a firm footing under new coach Mike Hanna, who has just completed his first season here.

Ball Team Takes 2 of 3. One error-plagued inning combined with inability to hit in the clutch against Lafayette Saturday afternoon prevented the Princeton baseball season from ending on a high note. After Monday's contest with Fairleigh Dickinson was frozen out, the Tigers won from Trenton State and St. John's by identical 8-7 scores before losing to Lafayette, 4-2.

The triumph over Trenton State was achieved on the strength of the longest home run in the 16-year history of Clarke Field. An astonishing line-drive shot from the bat of center fielder Paul Pecka, the ball cleared the fence at the 410-foot mark and came to rest some 425 feet from the plate.

The seventh-inning blast, with Captain Bob Flaherty on base, converted a 7-6 deficit into an 8-7 lead that Paul Zoubek protected. A two-run homer by Flaherty in the first had given Princeton a brief lead but the Tigers trailed by 7-3 before rallying for three in the fifth to set the stage for Pecka's winning homer.

St. John's, too, had a three-run lead as late as the eighth inning on Friday. Behind senior Bob Tufts, the Orange and Black had taken a 3-0 margin but yielded this and more on sloppy infield play. Trailing, 7-4 in the last of the eighth, Princeton tied the score on a rally capped by another Vic Kurylak double that drove in two.

In the tenth, left fielder Joe DeGeorge walked, reached third on a single by Kurylak and after Pecka was walked intentionally to load the bases, freshman catcher Ted Frangos singled over the drawn-in center fielder's head for the winning run. Tufts went the distance for his seventh victory of the season against three defeats and the 16th of his Princeton career.

Two Runs Forced In. Against Lafayette, Kurylak's second inning triple was followed by four bases on balls to give the Tigers two runs. That would have been all they needed despite a solo homer for the visitors two innings later had it not been for a gift run in the fifth. With a runner on second, Frangos scooped up a wild pitch and threw late and wild to third, allowing the tieing run to score.

Neither team could produce another tally until the top of the 11th, when the visitors pushed over a pair on two scratch hits and two more Princeton infield errors. Senior Mike O-Brien, in relief of senior Doug Lorentz, took the loss. The Tigers had numerous chances to produce the go-ahead run during the game's later innings but the necessary hit was never there.

The week's results set the final record at 17-15, with a 4-9 Eastern League record for sixth place. Lack of consistency was the team's season-long problem—even the frequently powerful hitting deserted it when needed most. Tufts was the lone pitcher of at least average ability and the fielding was often something less than top drawer.

Tufts, Pecka, Flaherty and shortstop Dennis Spates, a hard-hitting infielder with a good arm, are the principal losses by graduation. If the holdover pitchers gain experience through summer ball and reports of one or more incoming pitchers of unusual promise prove accurate, the team may make it back to the post-season playoffs after a year's absence.

WINNERS NAMED

In Jr. Tennis Tournament. Nassau Racquet and Tennis Club held its third annual Junior Invitational last week with boys and girls in the 14's. Both divisions had three set finals.

SPORTS FANS! I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you By John Bernard

Oddly enough, a big league baseball player actually caught his own home run! ... How's this possible? ... It happened to Dixie Walker one day in 1946 at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn ... Dixie hit a homer with the ball sticking in the right field screen high above the field, and staying there ... At the end of the inning, Walker went out to play his position in right field, and as he neared the fence the ball suddenly started to drop out of the screen ... Walker ran over, made the catch, and became the only man in history who ever caught his own home run!

Did you know that Pete Rose has hit over .300 in 11 of the last 12 seasons! ... The only year in the last 12 when he failed to hit over .300 was 1974, when he batted .284.

With all the football, basketball and hockey teams that have folded in recent years, it's amazing to learn that NO big league baseball team has ever failed to complete a season in this century ... Last time a big league baseball team folded during a season was way back in 1884.

First seed Maureen Risley won the girls' event, (4-6, 6-3, 7-6) over Julie Sutton, while third seed Karl Meunch upset second seed Brett Briscoe in the semi's. He then lost to first seed Jeff Cohen, 6-0, 5-7, 6-1.

Mark Goodman of Princeton won two rounds before losing in the semi's to Cohen. Other area entrants were George Gallup, Cari Camper, and Diane Aronovic.

PHS TOPS NOTRE DAME

In Track, 76½-54½. The Princeton High School track team won its second dual meet of the season last week, defeating Notre Dame, 76½-54½.

It was less successful in a triangular meet with Ewing Thursday. Although it placed second with 33 points, PHS failed to win a single event. Ewing (5-3) dominated the event, scoring 102 points. North Hunterdon had 30.

Against Notre Dame, Barry Turner and Tony Strong led the way again for the Little Tigers. Turner captured three field events, winning the long jump with a leap of 20-8, the high jump with a 5-8 effort and the javelin with a toss of 153-2. Strong won his two specialties, the dash events, taking the 100 in 10.4 and the 220 in 23.3.

PHS enjoyed more success in the field events than in previous meets as Paul Hoad won the shot with 43-11½, and Mike King took the discus with 116-9. Kevin Dede won the two mile in 11:10.2, while teammate Brad Ogilvie won the mile in 4:48.6. Andy Logan won the 120 high hurdles and was second in the 330 intermediate hurdles.

RUN FOR DAYLIGHT: Morgan Mohrman is surrounded by dark-shirted players on the Clark lacrosse team but the visitors were unable to contain the high scoring PHS attackman who had three goals and two assists.

PHS RANKED NO. 4

After Victory Over Clark. "They can't take it away from you after today; they have to rank us in the top five."

This was the prediction of Princeton High School lacrosse coach Bill Cirullo Friday as he addressed the team after his surging Little Tigers had shocked Clark (Johnson Regional High School), 6-3, for its fourth consecutive win. "We are looking forward to a 10-3 season and seven in a row," said Cirullo. "If we work hard, we can do it."

Actually, when the rankings for the NJSIAA public school Group A teams were released over the weekend, PHS was fourth – its highest notch ever – behind first - place Montclair, Boonton and Columbia. Clark was fifth. In the overall rankings, which include private schools, PHS was fifth behind fourth-place Lawrenceville.

In the first round of the NJSIAA playoff, Princeton High will oppose Clark at home. The date has not been selected yet.

"The outstanding part in this win was our defense, our stick checking and overall pressure defense," commented Cirullo after the Clark win. At the start of the season, Cirullo had stated that he was most concerned about the defense, which was inexperienced. The attack was there.

"They (the defense) were not as agressive early because they had to learn; now we've got a good, solid defense." Foremost have been Keith Wadsworth, Bobby Cooke, Craig Strazza and twins Jimmy and Cal Harris.

PHS Leads at Half. A solo shot by Bobby Campbell and another by Morgan Mohrman, assisted by Chris Cahill had staked PHS to a 2-1 halftime lead. Early in the third quarter, the visitors tied it at 2 but Johnny Morris gave PHS the lead again with a shot in front of the net. A rifle shot by Mohrman made it 4-2, Princeton.

Clark stayed close, however, when its star, Dave Furiness, scored his second goal but for the most part, the Little Tigers dominated the play. In the final period, Matt Adriance gave PHS some breathing room when he scored on an unassisted play and Mohrman added a third goal to make it a 6-3 final. Jamie Lesher assisted on the shot.

The high-scoring Mohrman now has 41 points for the season to rank him among the top five in the state, Cirullo said.

"We came out strong early in the game and kept the pressure on," said Cirullo, listing one of the reasons why PHS was able to defeat Clark, which entered the game as the second - ranked team in the state. "The third-quarter was the key," Cirullo added.

Earlier in the week, PHS had routed Summit, 11-5. "There's the reason," said Cirullo as he pointed to the stats for Mohrman, which showed three goals and six assists.

Morris also had three goals, Campbell two and Lesher one. But Cirullo saved most of his praise for first-year player Chris MacDonald, a junior middie who scored a goal and had an assist.

SCORES KEY GOAL: When Matt Adriance scored, his shot gave PHS a 5-3 lead over Clark and paved the way to a 6-3 win in lacrosse.

"He had a beautiful goal, he gave us the spark," said Cirullo. Goalie Bob Willis had 13 saves for PHS.

NO. 8 IS EASY

Two To Go for PHS Stickmen. "We're putting that little rubber ball in the cage, which is nice," said PHS coach Bill Cirullo Monday after his Princeton High lacrosse team had disposed of Livingston, 12-7, for its fifth straight win and eighth in 11 starts.

Morgan Morhman continued his torrid scoring with three goals and four assists. In 11 games, he has 47 points for an average of four plus per game. Another PHS gun, Johnny Morris, used his excellent shot for three more goals.

Chris Cahill also had two goals, as did sophomore Tommy Lion, filling in for starter Jamie Lesher. "Lion had a very nice game," commented Cirullo. "He's learned a lot and he showed it today."

PHS led 12-5 when Cirullo pulled goalie Bob Willis and his starting defense with five minutes left to play.

NO LONGER ANY DOUBT

PHS Is Snakebitten Team. When Jamie Robertson singled home pinch-runner Steve Miller in the home half of the last inning to give Princeton High School an apparent 5-4 win over visiting Hightstown Monday, there was wild jubilation among the players and Coach Jim O'Neill.

At last the 12-game losing string was over. Shortstop Scott Thompson was jumping up and down for joy.

But wait! Why was the Hightstown team not leaving the field? Why was O'Neill suddenly grabbing Miller and sending him back to third base?

Hightstown coach Charlie Pesce had noticed what O'Neill confirmed later: Miller had missed touching third base by a wide margin. When Pesce asked for a ruling, home umpire Jim Clancy concurred: Out!

Bruno Perna then fanned and the game went into extra innings. Two frames later when the Rams scored twice, the three-hour and 25-minute ordeal for the Little Tigers finally ended. PHS had lost its 13th straight.

It was a bitter afternoon for PHS, one that saw O'Neill thrown out of a game for the first time in his three-year career. "It's tough not to be down after this game," he said.

"What can you say. You tell the kids to work hard and things will eventually work out. Now this. All we can do now is have fun and wait for next year."

Four Games Left. The season can't end soon enough for PHS. Two of the four games remaining will be played this week, starting with Steinert here Wednesday afternoon at 3:45. On Monday, the Little Tigers will be in Trenton for a Colonial Valley conference game with St. Anthony.

After that, only games with Ewing and West Windsor remain. Both wilt be at home.

After both teams had failed to score in the eighth, Hightstown opened the ninth with a walk to Bob Spearman by Keith Phox, Princeton's fourth pitcher. Phox had thrown over to first a few times to hold Spearman to the bag when field umpire John Burns suddenly signaled a balk. O'Neill exploded off the bench. "Show me how that was a balk," he demanded.

When Burns refused to listen to O'Neill's protestations and turned his back, O'Neill grabbed him by the arm. "Take your hands off me. You're out of the game," roared Burns.

Phox retired the next two, but when Mark Ehlers beat out a grounder to deep short, Spearman came home with the winning run. Shortstop Shawn Conlon, who had two triples earlier, then looped a single to right to send home the sixth run before Bob Dyckman fanned.

With two down and pitcher Johnny Miller directing the team, Al Kandell got on via an error to keep Princeton's flickering hopes alive in their final turn. But Scott Thompson fanned for the final out

You Win and Don't Win. "That's the rock bottom," commented a PHS fan. "When you're 1-and-12 and you win a game, and you don't win a game."

PHS had opened the action with a homer by Dave Miller -- his first of the year -- in the first off the Ram's ace hurler, Dave Malloy. Conlon's two-run triple in the second made it 2-1, but a single by Phox, a walk and Thompson's single in the third tied il at 2.

PHS went ahead again in the fourth on a hit by Johnny Rosenthal, the team's sixth, a walk, and two errors. However in the sixth, another walk, the fourth leadoff pass by starter Jim Baxter, Conlon's second triple, two more walks and a steal which allowed Conlon to score gave the Rams (8-7) a 4-3 lead.

"This is our last chance. Let's pull this one out," O'Neill urged his players. Phox was out on a comebacker to reliefer Jeff Catelli, but Dave Miller lined a hit to right which Malloy misplayed into a double. Al Kandell bunted and Catelli was unable to come up with it for another error.

O'Neill then used Miller, a senior, to run for the slower Kandell. When Thompson, next up, singled to center for his second hit, scoring Dave Miller to tie the game, it set up the winning run that wasn't a winning run when Robertson followed with Princeton's 10th hit.

"We finally won a game fair and square and we can't claim it," moaned O'Neill. "We can't buy a ball game."

The irony is that the Little Tigers have been playing improved ball and still losing. Earlier, they had lost to Lawrence, 4-3, again in extra innings, and 4-1 to Notre Dame. In both games, PHS stranded a total of 17 runners.

"We can't get the timely hitting with men on base," said O'Neill.

In the Lawrence contest, Phox had two of Princeton's five hits, while Rosenthal singled home one run and had three stolen bases. Thompson's sacrifice fly in the seventh sent the game into extra innings.

Against Notre Dame, Princeton's lone run came in the third when Perna singled home Kandell who had doubled. Both teams had six hits but Notre Dame bunched three of their's in the first, the big hit a two-run single by Tom Goeke.

TOURNEY SET

For Saturday. The Princeton Soccer Club will hold its second annual spring tournament Saturday, hosting teams in four age brackets from New Jersey, Connecticut, Pennsylvania and Delaware.

All 1966 and 1965 squads will play at Chapin School and all 1964 and 1962 teams at Gulick Field on the Princeton University campus. Each tournament will be run as a round-robin from 9 until 6. Tropheys will be given to the champions and Princeton Soccer Club patches will be sent to all participants.

PHS GIRLS WIN, LOSE

In Softball. The Princeton High School girls softball team (6-8) lost to Hightstown Monday, 14-9, as the Rams, winners of 14 of 15 games, scored in every inning but two. The Little Tigers were guilty of seven errors.

Among Princeton's 14 hits were a triple by Peggy Wood and doubles by Carol Ann Mazzella and Barbie Wilson. Cindy Burroughts took the loss.

Last week, Mazella had five hits including a home run and three doubles as she drove in seven runs in Princeton's 24-15 win over Hopewell Valley. There were 42 hits in the game, 24 by PHS.

Wood had a home run and triple among her three hits, driving in four runs, while Amy Lovell rapped four doubles for the losers.

Four Teams Entered in Baseball Playoffs Planned Here from Friday through Sunday

The Mid-Atlantic Eastern Conference baseball playoffs, a formula adopted last year to give eight teams from this area a shot at the NCAA District Tournament and a possible trip to the "College World Series" in Omaha, will be staged in Princeton again this weekend.

Doubleheaders will be played at noon and at 3 on both Friday and Saturday on Clarke and Strubing fields, one of the top layouts of adjacent diamonds in the east. The championship round will begin at noon Sunday and il no clear winner has emerged as a result of that game, a second contest will be played at 3 o'clock. Under the double elimination policy in force, each team must lose twice before it drops out of the tournament.

One of the top-ranked teams in the East, St. John's University, will play here, after having compiled a 26-6 record. The Redman ran into a wholly unexpected losing streak last week, one that saw them drop four games in three days after having lost only two of their first 25. One of the defeats was an 8-7, 10-inning game with Princeton, but the Tigers were no better than 17-15 on the year and missed out on the invitation that they earned a year ago.

St. John's will be paired against Catholic University of Washington, one of the weaker entries, with a 16-14 mark. In the other game Friday, Fairleigh Dickinson (20-11) will play the runner-up in the Eastern League, either Columbia or Cornell.

These two tied for first place at the end of the regular season with identical marks of 11-3. Columbia had finished its schedule a fortnight ago, but when the Red defeated Dartmouth Friday and split with Harvard Saturday, it caught the Lions, who were the defending champions.

The playoff game was scheduled under lights Tuesday at Oneida, N.Y. The loser will come here; the winner will receive a bye in the Mid-Atlantic playoffs and enter the NCAA District Tournament Memorial Day weekend at Middletown, Conn.

Following the first-round games Friday, the two losing teams will meet at 3, a contest which will narrow the field by one. Friday's two winners will play Saturday at noon, with the team that will have won twice by then advancing to Sunday's finals and the loser then meeting the team with a 1-1 record from Friday's action.

The survivor of that game will face the team with a 2-0 mark. If the latter wins in Sunday's game at noon, the tournament will end; however, if two teams remain with 2-1 records, another contest will be held until three teams have all lost twice.

If it sounds complicated, it is, but it's procedure that's been followed successfully in other years, and three days without rain are guaranteed to produce a winner by some time Sunday afternoon.

In a similar tournament at the University of Delaware, the host team and three others, Buffalo, Seton Hall and George Washington, will undergo similar elimination. The winner there will join the Princeton winner at Middletown, where the Eastern League champion and Temple, victor in the East Coast Conference, have already been entered.

SEMI-FINALS THURSDAY

For PDS Nine. The Princeton Day baschall team will meet Gill-St. Bernard's Thursday afternoon at 4 at Lawrenceville in the semi-finals of the Prep School Class B division of the state tournament.

Unlike the first meeting of the two teams, which the Panthers won, 17-6, this one figures to be much closer. St. Bernard's will have their best pitcher ready this time, not the one who issued 22 walks to PDS batters two weeks ago.

The victor will meet the winner of the Neumann Prep-Saddle River contest sometime next week in the finals. Coach Tom DeVito is cautiously optimistic about his team's chances, feeling that they certainly have the ability to win both games.

Last week in regular season play the law of averages caught up with the Blue and White, as it dropped a pair of one-run decisions to Allentown and Newark Academy. The twin losses gave the Panthers an 8-3 mark.

The Allentown contest, a duel between two undefeated hurlers, Mike Walters and Randy Capes, was decided by an unearned run in the final inning that gave the home team a 1-0 triumph.

PDS third baseman Lou Guarino had trouble with a slowly bouncing ball, and the batter reached first safely. The next man up missed an attempted bunt, but with the runner hung up between first and second, catcher John Hickling threw the ball into centerfield. That gave Allentown a man on third with nobody out.

Walters struck out the next man, walked the next two intentionally to load the hases, and fanned the following batter for the second out. However, the next Allentown batter hit a line drive that tailed away from second baseman Evan Press and the winning run scored.

PDS had no trouble putting men on base, 12 in all, but could not push any of them the final 90 feet. In the fourth inning, the Allentown pitcher issued live consecutive walks, but escaped without a run against him when he picked two men off second base.

In the final inning, Nusblatt walked, stole second and was just nipped at the plate when he tried to score on a line drive single to left by Guarino. Those bad breaks obviously had been accumulating all season. Walters' loss was his first against six wins.

Two days later Dave Barondess lost his second game in four starts, when his streak of wildness in the fifth allowed Newark Academy to score twice.

Newark had taken a 1-0 lead in the second, but the Panthers went up 2-1 in the third on run-scoring hits by Nusblatt and Frank Piccolella. Two innings later Barondess walked two, gave up a single and walked two more to give Newark two runs and the ball game, 3-2. Tony Dell got the last two outs of the inning and finished up.

The regular season also continues for the Panthers. This Wednesday they will play Peddie away, and Friday, Morristown-Beard at home.

.500 MARK IN VIEW

For Hun Nine. It was a crucial week for the Hun School baseball team and the Red and Black came up short - - usually by one run.

"This week will tell if we make it above .500," observed Hun coach Bill McQuade. A pair of one-run setbacks, a loss to Newark Academy in the New Jersey Prep School state championship, a win over Germantown Friends and a 4-2 loss to West Windsor Saturday in its most recent outing left Hun with a 6-9 record.

Ahead are away games with Blair Wednesday and Delbarton Friday and a home game with Girard on Monday. The latter will start at 3:30.

Against West Windsor, Hun played well, committing only one error, but "we just faced a tough pitcher," said McQuade. West Windsor's Ron Dilatush allowed Hun only four hits in hurling his best game of the season for his first win.

Hun scored one on Jimmy Cortina's homer in the third and again in the sixth on a Cortina single, sacrifice fly and a single by Angelo Barbero. The Pirates bunched three of their seven hits off losing pitcher Fred Wollman (3-3) for two runs and won the game in the sixth when they scored two more. The win snapped a three-game losing streak for WW.

Earlier, Hun defeated Germantown Friends, 10-7, in a Penn-Jersey League contest, jumping out to a 10-2 lead after four innings. Tom Dillione won his first game with Wollman pitching the last two innings.

"We hit well but mentally we weren't in the ball game," said McQuade. "It was a very sloppy game." The Quakers were guilty of four errors; Hun with three. Hun bagged 10 hits, including triples by Cortina and Tom West.

Mitchell the Low Point. A 5-4 loss to Mitchell Prep (10-5) in extra innings was described by McQuade as "the low point" in the week. It was Hun's third one-run loss in a row when it occurred.

Hun outhit Mitchell, 9-4, but allowed the winning run to cross the plate in the ninth on a walk, bunt, passed ball and error. Wasted was a 4-for-4 batting performance by Dillione that included three shots past third and a double. Dillione took the loss.

Hun was ahead 3-1 but in the fourth it issued five walks, four in a row following an error that would have been the third out. In all, Hun walked seven, causing McQuade to comment, "You can't win ball games that way."

Hun began the week with a 7-6 loss to Newark Academy in the prep school Class A state championship tournament. It was the fifth time Hun has played Newark this year (counting exhibition games in Florida this spring) and Hun has lost four of them.

It was a familiar Hun performance, reported McQuade: good hitting, poor mental concentration in the field. Four of Newark's runs were unearned, as Hun misjudged a fly ball and committed two errors at third.

West, Cortina and Dave Dudeck all hit triples for Hun. "It was a tough loss for the boys," said McQuade. "They gave 100 percent but a couple of errors and one mental error cost us the game. We played very good ball in the beginning."

David Bush and Scott Fisher tied the bantam 50-yard dash mark with a clocking of 7.0 seconds. Dave and Scott were also winners on the 440 relay team with Freddie Young and Mike Taylor. Kim Johnson won both the 50 and 100 - yard dashes in the midget division.

Susie Haynes tied a record for the junior 100-yard dash with a 12.3 second performance. Susie also anchored the 440 relay team of Jenny Flynn, Sue Mooney and Melanie Goldfeld. Monica Pica won the midget girls long jump and also ran with Kathy Gallagher, Emily Gilmore and Amy Masonis to win their division's relay race.

Tim Martin took both the 100 and 220-yard dash for the juniors. Robert Servas won the midget 50 and 100-yard dash and also anchored his relay team of Jerry Ingram, John O'Neill and David Steffans to victory.

Other winners on Saturday were: Kelly Wells, Jenny Murphy, Erika Gabrielsen, Kelly Wells, Toni Barkley, Renee McGowan, Dellici McElroy, bantam 440 relay, Alison Brandt, Kitty Ager, Pamela Petrone, Sydni Craig, Cathy Myers, Monica Pica, Sue Mooney, Mike Taylor, Michael Baum, Peter Mueller, Bill Busnell, Mickey Foltiny, Troy Hill, Kenneth McKellar, Whitney Davis, Les Spann and Tom Foltiny.

PHS SEEDED FIRST

In Group 2 Tennis. Once-defeated Princeton High School (12-1) has been seeded first in the Central Jersey Group 2 NJSIAA state tennis tournament competition which begins this week.

The Little Tigers drew an opening round bye. Bernardsville is seeded second and Metuchen third. PHS topped Bernardsville, 3-2, last year but PHS coach Joe Diefenbach reports everyone is back from last year's team and it is undefeated this year.

In dual matches this week, PHS will play the Lawrenceville School "B" team in Lawrenceville and Moorestown here Friday at 3:45. Moorestown is the top seed in the Central Jersey Group 3 division.

In action last week, PHS blanked Lawrence, 5-0, on Thursday, after edging the Cardinals, 3-2, in a match earlier this season. All the drama, however, centered on its match with Metuchen which came here with a 14-2 record. The Little Tigers won, 3-2.

Undefeated Scott Clark of PHS won the number one singles, 6-3, 6-3, while Mike Loew captured the number three singles, 6-3, 6-2. Metuchen evened the match when it won both doubles. Hugo Walter and Lou Snidjers lost 6-4, 7-5, and Seth Sanders and Peter Wilson went down 6-4, 6-3.

The deciding match was the number two singles between Allen Aronovic (11-1) of PHS and Perry Sinett of Metuchen. Aronovic lost the first set, 6-1. He won the second, 6-3.

After six games, the decisive third set was tied, 3-3. Aronovic then fell behind, 4-3, as the tension mounted. Reaching back, he won the next three to win the set 6-4 and the match.

"It was a close one," agreed Diefenbach.

26 GAMES SCHEDULED

For Tiger Hockey Team. The Princeton University hockey team will play a 26-game schedule in 1977-78. The Tigers will also make an appearance in the first annual Colby Tournament in Portland, Maine.

The tournament features Princeton and three Maine schools: Bowdoin, Colby and the University of Maine. The latter will be coached in its first season of varsity competition by Jack Semler, for whom a successor is being sought here following his resignation after four years on the scene.

Fourteen of the 26 games will be played on Baker Rink. The season opener will be at home on November 16 against Merrimack, ECAC Division II champions. Other teams visiting Baker include Northeastern, Boston College, Colgate, Army and St. Lawrence. The road schedule includes games with Providence, Vermont, Middlebury and RPI.

In February, a veteran Tiger line-up will play a stretch of seven straight home games, in contrast to last winter when Princeton traveled through a string of 13 road games in a 15-game span during mid-season. With all but four players returning next year, the Tigers hope to improve considerably on the 3-21-1 record they compiled last season.

The schedule. Nov. 16, Merrimack; 19, at Yale; 26, at Dartmouth.

Dec. 3, Northeastern; 6, Pennsylvania; 9, Boston College, 11, at Providence; 13, at Brown.

THE HATHAWAY GOLF CLASSIC

Jack Nicklaus prefers the Hathaway Golf Classic. The fine 100% cotton lisle is knit in a special way for maximum absorbency, yet it still "breathes" as only cotton can. And although this is truly the aristocrat of knit shirts, it's totally undemanding as to care — washes and dries fast and easy. It's the most professional golf shirt made.
